GOP DRIVES FOR DECISIVE VOTE ON TAX

Leaders Seek Early Ballot In Effort To Get Ruml Plan Approved

AMENDMENTS STUDIED

Close Battle Seen Over Bill Offered By Administration Without 'Forgiveness.'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Republicans supporting the Carlson-Ruml skip-a-year tax plan today sought an early, decisive vote as the house began consideration of an estimated 20 amendments to the total forgiveness proposal.

The parliamentary battle, expected to produce the tightest partisan roll calls since the peacetime conscription bill passed the house by one vote, follows four days of general debate which left no pay-as-you-go plan unscathed and few adjectives unemployed.

Last-minute attempts at compromising are still underway, but the start of actual law-making work on the current collection issues finds the house almost evenly divided between the Carlson-Ruml bill and the ways and means committee's non-abatement proposal for withholding at the source. The Robertson-Forand partial forgiveness compromise plan appeared to be running a bad third despite charges by Rep E. E. Cox, (D-Ga.), that it is receiving "undercover" administration support.

By agreement of the rival pay-as-you-go factions, Rep. Frank Carlson, (R-Kans.), will be permitted to offer his version of the Ruml plan as a substitute for the committee bill as soon as the latter proposal is brought up for formal consideration by the house committee of the whole.

Most of today, according to Carlson, will be taken up with a string of "minor" amendments, and it may be tomorrow or Thursday before the first decisive vote is taken. Many of the revisions are (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

MEETS DAVIS

FDR Schedules First Talks With New Food Czar.

WASHINGTON - (AP) President Roosevelt scheduled his first conference today with his new food administrator, Chester C. Davis, and brought into the meeting Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and leaders of four national farm organizations.

The latter were Ezra T. Benson, president of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives; Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange; James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers union; and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

On capital hill, the senate agricultural committee voted to start hearings next Tuesday on the house-approved Pace bill to include all of a farmer's labor costs in computations of parity prices.

THREAT GROWS

Spread of Poultry Dealers Strike To New Areas Feared.

CLEVELAND (INS)--Today's situation in the poultry dealers' "strike" in Cleveland and Akron, revealed that the shutdown might spread throughout a larger territory as dealers from Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Cincinnati meet here tonight.

Dealers charged that farmers were being paid prices for poultry, without respect for OPA price ceilings, and that the "legitimate" dealer cannot obtain live poultry.

Sea, Air Blows Pound Rommel During Flight

8,000 Axis Prisoners Taken As French And American Columns Converge On Vital Airbase At Kairouan; Red Armies Advance Again.

(By Associated Press)

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's victorious British Eighth army was officially reported to have swept through Gabes and El Hamma today in a 20-mile advance from the Mareth line, hotly pursuing Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa corps in headlong flight toward the north. A junction with the American forces of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., appeared imminent.

Occupation of Gabes and El Hamma on opposite sides of the Gabes bottleneck between the sea and the salt lakes was announced by an Allied headquarters communique today, and the second New Zealand division of Lieut. Gen. Bernard Cyril Freyburg continued the chase of Marshal Erwin along the coastal road toward Sfax, 70 miles to the north.

The Germans withdrew from Gabes under a terrific Allied air bombardment, as well as punishment from the sea delivered by salvos of shells from Allied warships.

(Announcing the passage of New Zealand troops through Gabes this morning, Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons in London today that the vanguards were still in contact with the retreating enemy forces north of Gabes.

Churchill announced the fall of Gabes within 24 hours after it was disclosed that the British Eighth army had smashed through the Mareth fortifications, and declared:

"We have every reason to be satisfied with the progress already made by our superior forces and superior and resolute commanders."

A communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said the Eighth army captured both Gabes and El Hamma, 20 miles to the west, and said prisoners seized by the onrushing Allies now totaled 8,000.

In the north, Lieut.-Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British First army struck out across difficult mountain country in fresh advances against the Axis, capturing more than 700 prisoners in the Djebel Abiod region, the communique said.

American troops under Lieut.-Gen. George S Patton, jr., were also reported advancing eastward from El Guetar, thrusting toward the sea after beating off Axis counter-attacks

A Morocco broadcast said American and French forces were converging on the big enemy airfield at Kairouan, 32 miles below the port of Sousse, while another U. S. column, driving across the coastal plain from Maknassy, made new gains in the direction of Sfax.

"New Zealand troops have already passed through Gabes," the prime minister told parliament in London.

"They are actually in contact with the enemy."

Simultaneously, Italian headquarters acknowledged the gravity of the Axis position, reporting that mounting Allied pressure had forced German and Italian troops to retreat to "new positions to avoid the enemy's attempt at encirclement."

RUSH ON FOR CAR STICKERS

Motorists Jam Auto Club's Offices With Deadline Coming Up Tomorrow.

Ohio's new-fangled windshield sticker might lack the glamor appeal of the customary license plates but if your auto doesn't display the little red gadget after midnight Wednesday you'll be liable to arrest and fine of $25.

Secretary Jack Berger of the Richland county Auto club said today that while applications for 1943 motor licenses lagged nearly 50 per cent behind last year's record a few days ago this week has brought all-day crowds jamming issue windows at the club offices on North Mulberry street.

When the offices closed last Friday only 7,026 licenses had been issued—less than half the total of 14,810 sets of plates handed out through last year. Berger and his corps of registrars feel that when the rush is over tomorrow night last year's total will be approached. Some cars have been removed from service because of tires and (Continued on Page 12, Col. 8)

Death Toll's 206 As Fire Destroys Barn Near City

Rabbits, goats and chickens were destroyed in a rural Mansfield barn fire late Monday and Central station firemen also were summoned to extinguish three grass and hedge fires.

Charles Boyle, Belmont avenue, told firemen that a faulty incubator heater undoubtedly fired his barn which housed 100 rabbits, 100 baby chicks and six milk goats. All were cremated as flames lapped rapidly through dried timbers and hay and grain stored in the structure.

Firemen were called to the Hancock home at 500 West Fourth street when flames from a pile of dead grass raked from a lawn spread to a dry hedge fence. Fire trucks were dispatched twice to Massa avenue to extinguish grass fires which imperiled dwellings.

Earlier in the afternoon, Central firemen hurried to Bowman and Harker streets in response to a false alarm.

Liquor Rationing Nearer As Senate Panel Approves Bill

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS -- Inevitable retail liquor rationing moved a step nearer for Ohio today as the senate liquor control committee unanimously voted out and recommended for passage the Metzenbaum-Day bill, to authorize the state liquor director to set up a system of "equitable distribution."

The bill passed the house on March 17, and senate approval is accepted as a foregone conclusion. During the senate committee hearing there was not one witness in opposition to the bill.

Liquor Director Don Fisher said that his department heads "have been doing a lot of figuring on this bill," and that although the bill does not make a rationing system mandatory but leaves its establishment to the discretion of the director, "a system of equitable distribution most certainly will be established as soon as possible."

He refused to state how soon after senate passage a rationing system could be set up, or what the ration quota per adult would be. He did say, however, that he hoped to announce further details next Monday.

The committee also heard Sen. Maurice Lipscher (D., Youngstown) on the senator's bill to abolish state stores and warehouses and substitute private retailers and wholesalers, but continued the hearing on that bill to next Monday night.

Lipscher denied that his bill was intended to be a "political football," but declared that 10 years of operation of the state monopoly had proved it inefficient in its unfair competition with free enterprise

"The state should not remain in competition with free enterprise," he stated. "Ohio should be taken out of the liquor business

"The liquor shortage in Ohio may be charged to the mis-managed system, which has become permeated with politics and burd- (Continued on Page 12, Col. 5)

FOOD'S COMING

2,000,000 Cases of Canned Foods To Be Released.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The department of agriculture announced today that more than 2,000,000 cases of canned fruits and vegetables will be released soon by the food distribution administration to augment civilian supplies.

Principal items in the group are canned tomatoes, pears, plums, apples and peaches. Most of the stocks were purchased from the 1941 pack and have been held to meet emergency war needs.

Officials also announced the transfer of approximately 12,000,000 cases of canned fruits, vegetables and juices -- principally canned corn and peas--by the army to the food distribution administration. These supplies will be released later by the FDA in meeting emergency food situations.

Bricker In 11th-Hour Attempt To Line Up Ohio Legislature

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Assembly leaders applied pressure today for completion of their legislative program by May 1, after a lengthy meeting with Governor Bricker in a protracted policy conference.

Private comment in the legislative halls suggested that the meetings last night before and after the session were an attempt to answer reports of recent weeks that Bricker had lost touch with the assembly and that the unwieldy Republican majorities were getting out of hand.

But senate and house leaders asserted the conferences which lasted until after midnight were merely a continuation of their customary "policy meetings."

As reported by the legislative chiefs, the conference sought to expedite the following matters:

1. The $369,000,000 biennial state budget; this may reach debate in the house by the latter part of next week.

2. Adjournment, at least of "working sessions," by May 1.

3. Salary increases for state (Continued on Page 12, Col. 4)

Herman S Bradford, 65 South Walnut street, was indicted under military selective service act for failure to report to his draft board after having been classified as a conscientious objector.

George C. Estes, North Mulberry street, is charged with failure to report for induction into the armed forces.

Both are registered with local draft board No. 1.

Raymond H. Bates, giving Mansfield as his home, was indicted for receiving a stolen auto in West Virginia while Roy Williams, Bucyrus, must face trial on two counts on the charge of making false claims for benefits under the Railroad Retirement act.

BANK RECORDS ARE SUBPENAED

Prosecutor Seeks To Support Extortion Charge.

TULSA, Okla. -- (UP) -- County Attorney Dixie Gilmer today subpenaed bank records of T. K. Simmons, millionaire oil man, to support his charge that extortion was involved in the slaying of Simmons' socially prominent wife.

Gilmer made the extortion charge in court after disclosing that Simmons, in a signed statement, had admitted that he once gave $20,000 to Mrs. Ella B. Howard, 44, slim, attractive divorcee from Fort Worth, Tex., who is held for the murder of Simmons' wife.

Mrs. Howard contends that Mrs. Simmons, 55, a nationally known horse fancier, came to her hotel room last Thursday night and threatened her with a gun. Mrs Simmons was killed, Mrs. Howard said, in a struggle for possession of the pistol.

REPEAT: RAF Ravages Berlin Again With Loss Of 33 Bombers

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The RAF attacked Berlin and war plants in the Ruhr valley last night with a loss of 33 bombers, the air ministry announced today.

Sweeping over the Nazi capital for the second time in three nights, the British fliers inflicted heavy damage and lost 21 bombers, while another twelve were missing from the sweep over the Ruhr, the communique said.

It was the sixtieth raid of the war on Berlin Saturday night the RAF unloaded 900 tons of bombs in the greatest raid of the war on the Nazi capital, during which nine bombers were lost.

It was the seventh air attack on Berlin this year.

Bochum, an important iron, steel and coal center in the Ruhr only 10 miles east of Essen, also was among the targets hit.

A German broadcast said the British had unloaded their bombs aimlessly, "without even trying to hit military objectives." It reported damage to residential areas and civilian casualties.

A later Nazi broadcast said Berlin had been under alert for approximately two hours beginning at 1:30 a. m.

The nazis struck back this morning when four of their planes swooped in low from the sea to drop bombs on a town on the British southwest coast. A direct (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

DISPATCH: Daring Story Of El Hamma Flank Attack Bared

(Following is the first dispatch from the daring flanking force Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery sent around the Mareth line compelling the Germans to abandon their strong defensive positions and retreat. Though it was filed Sunday it indicates Montgomery's intention of trapping the Axis force, or, failing that, to decimate it in retreat. That his plan is succeeding is indicated by reports that soon after the dispatch was filed, El Hamma was captured by the British force.)

CHAPTER XXIX

Carol did not want her voice to sound as though she had just caught her breath. But it did. "Hello, Bill. How are you?"

"Oh, I'm fine."

Ian said, "Sit down, Bill. Now I'll mix some drinks."

When Ian went into the house, Freda passed cigarets and asked, "When did you get back to town, Bill?"

He held a lighter to Freda's cigaret and then to Carol's. And in the brief flame she saw the well-remembered hands trembling ever so slightly.

"Yesterday," he said and sat down, crossing his long legs and lighting his own cigaret. "I'm—I'm back to stay. Tom sent for me."

"Really?" Freda asked. "Oh, that's fine, Bill. I'm awfully glad."

"How has everything been with you?"

She laughed. "How it has always been. Now that Ian has had his fling at golf, he wants a fling at the boat. Then it will be golf again and then he'll be making plans for the Christmas garden. And then we'll talk about going to Florida in the winter, but the income taxes coming due in March will stop us . . . as usual."

Bill turned to Carol and tried to make his voice brave. "How—how is everything with you, Carol?"

She smiled, but her mouth trembled. "Just fine."

"You're . . . you're looking great."

"Thanks. I am. You're looking fine, too. You're—you're getting gray." She had not meant to say that.

He ran his hand through his hair and chuckled. "I'm an old man now."

"Aren't we all?" Ian said coming out with a tray. "But you're just a youngster, Bill. Not dry behind the ears yet."

It was just as it used to be. Carol was thinking. But how foolish and childish to pretend that it was!

Just as it used to be . . . They sat in a circle on the terrace and drank their cool drinks. But tonight Ian and Freda talked most. Carol knew why they picked up each lull in the conversation of war and politics and personalities.

How long would the war last? What of the peace and the reconstruction of Europe? What if food were rationed in the United States? And what about Russia? And what about Roosevelt and Churchill and Stalin and Hitler?

* * *

Hours passed while Freda and Ian made the talk stimulating and permitted no silence to fall like a heavy hand between them. Hours while Carol sat tormented, conscious of Bill's familiar voice and movements and the process of his thinking and reasoning.

Finally she asked, "What time is it? It must be terribly late."

"Oh, it's only a little after one," Freda said.

Carol arose. "Then it's time for me to be going. My hat and gloves and bags are in the hall inside, Freda."

Bill got up quickly and stood beside her. "Have you a car, Carol?"

"Why, no. I left it in town today to be cleaned and came out with Ian."

"Then may I take you home? I'm—I'm going that way."

"Of course. Thank you."

Freda followed her into the dimly lighted hall.

As Carol picked up her wide-brimmed green hat and white purse and white gloves, Freda came nearer and spoke softly and hurriedly:

"Carol, it—it didn't just happen this way. Bill's coming out tonight, I mean. You can see through that, can't you? But I had to get you together some way. When Ian told me last night that he saw Bill and Tom in a restaurant together yesterday, I called Bill at his mother's and asked him out and told him you'd be here."

"But, Freda, why? Why . . . now?"

"Because, darling, you can't be faithful to two men. You may love two men, but you can't be faithful to two. No woman can be. Ian and I are the only people you've told about Clive. I've liked hearing about him. I don't know of any woman in her right mind who wouldn't welcome a romance with him. But only a romance. It was wonderful for you. It did wonderful things for you. It made you lovely.

"But that isn't the stuff that marriage is made of, darling. You know what it's made of. And just as Bill felt faithless to you when he was married to Evelyn, so you'll feel faithless to him of you marry Clive. You can't help it. You didn't have a romance with Bill. You had a marriage! And now he's free and he's home, Carol. There wouldn't be any marriage if people weren't big enough to forgive each other. You can't follow romance. Just romance. It's like a good book that has to end and even though you may want to go on reading it.

"What happened with Clive was pure romance and if you try to follow it, you'll come to a dead end. You've never shared anything with him except an exciting romance in a romantic place. Oh, don't you see? You shared everything with Bill and you love him . . . You love him after all that happened between you. Isn't your forgiveness as big as your love?

"Oh, darn it, the one time in my life I want to be eloquent all I can think of is that you had something for which there isn't any word . . . It's something that when other people haven't got it they'd give everything to have . . . Maybe it's love and maybe it isn't . . . I don't know. We call it love. You and Bill had it for seven years. It made you necessary to each other. And you still have it for each other and for no one else."

Carol said quietly, "It's odd that you should be saying these things." As she passed Freda she touched her shoulder affectionately.

* * *

Freda and Ian stood and watched them go.

Ian said, "Well, there they go . . . You aren't saying anything. You must be crying. When you don't talk, then I know you must be crying. The stars are still up there. How about wishing on them now. I'll join you and I'll give you odds we both wish the same thing. I've missed having Bill around like the devil. At our parties he always helped me mix the drinks and he never drank too much. A darned fine bartender . . . Incidentally, I did not find the bottle opener."

"You idiot! You darling idiot!"

"Thank you, dear. And maybe this is as good a time as any to tell you where I go on Saturday afternoons."

"You don't have to tell me."

"I know. But I want to. You see, when I married you, I was determined to keep one little slice of my life to myself . . . playing poker with the boys in my plant every Saturday afternoon. That one small bit of independence I thought I wanted to keep. It was like thumbing my nose at marriage and saying, 'You can't have all of me!' But I find that . . . well, I'm getting bored with it and I'd much rather come home to you and the boy. I've been ashamed to admit it . . . You aren't saying anything. You must be crying."

"You idiot!"

"I'll think about the mink coat. I didn't know you wanted one."

* * *

Carol said, "I live at the Brentwood Arms."

Bill said, "Yes, I know."

Every person has his own way of driving a car. She knew how fast, but how well Bill drove. He had a habit of testing the emergency brake several times before he was satisfied it was released.

"I had a job in New York," he said. "Fair job. But Tom sent for me. Believe me, I was glad enough to get out of New York. The worst existence I can think of is working there and living in a hotel and not knowing a soul. It was awful."

"I know your mother was glad to see you."

He gave a low chuckle of affirmation.

URGES WOMEN TO KEEP BUSY IN ABSENCE OF BOY FRIENDS

By JANE COCHRAN

NEW YORK—(INS)—When lovely Susan Hayward says that dates are scare, the manpower shortage has really hit Hollywood. But the Brooklyn-born starlet, who likes dancing and dates as much as the next one, isn't moping.

"Any woman," she declares, "who depends on dates and the entertainment of men to get fun out of life doesn't have much character of her own."

"Any woman who is bored now that her husband or men friends are all in the service would be bored even in peacetime," she adds.

Susan, who frankly admits that almost all her boy friends are in the army navy, marines or coast guard, keeps herself entertained by entertaining soldiers and sailors.

"We go to nearby bases one or two nights a week and sing or put on skits for the service men," she said. "The wives of producers and directors do most of the organizational work on canteens and entertainment programs. The actresses serve whenever they get the time off from work."

Her advice to women whose boyfriends or husbands have left for the service is simple—'Keep busy.'

"Every woman should do something in these days," she said. "She should get some working interest in life. If she can't take a full time job, she should take on vital volunteer work.

"There are so many useful jobs that a woman or girl can certainly find something to do that she'd like," she said. "I'd like to have time to devote to caring for children in nurseries. Every girl or young wife can gain valuable knowledge that way—we all hope to have a 'little darling' of our own some day."

Friendships with women will also grow out of the current situation, Miss Hayward says.

"We have the opportunity to make some very fine friendships with women," she said. "Friendships that, I believe, will last long after the war is over and our men return."

Miss Hayward came to New York in connection with her appearance in the Paramount picture, "Reap the Wild Wind," and she is planning a tour of army camps on her way back to the coast.

"I'm really looking forward to that," she said. "It's always a wonderful thrill, entertaining in camps. It's hard work—but fun."

Placing Block Under Furniture Didn't Stop Quake

AKRON—(AP)—Frank Yacobucci, assignment clerk of the Municipal court here, probably will think twice from now on before he sets out to cure a case of "refrigerator vibrations."

The last time the Yacobucci ice box started to shimmy, Frank was just sitting down to enjoy a midnight snack of rolls and coffee. The coffee cup danced a jig on the saucer, the kitchen window began to rattle, and Yacobucci blamed it all on the refrigerator.

He taped the window to stop its rattling, and then scurried around to find some wooden blocks which he shoved beneath the refrigerator legs to make it "set more level." The next morning Yacobucci learned that an earthquake had rocked Akron.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend

Mother's Friend is where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is as an aid in application for massaging the body during pregnancy . . . it helps keep the skin soft and pliable . . . thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for relief of numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin . . . for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it tonight.

ROUND TABLE CLUB GIVES MUSICAL TEA

Mrs. Hobart Scattergood and Mrs. H. L. Creveling Hostesses to Club Members at Meeting; Last Program of the Year.

MRS. HOBART SCATTERGOOD, assisted by Mrs. H. L. Creveling, was hostess to the Round Table club when it had its final meeting of the year, a guest tea and musicale, Monday afternoon at the Women's Club.

A short business meeting was held before the musical program was given, at which time Mrs. Stanley Richardson, vice-president, presided.

Miss Louise Krause, pianist, presented the musical program, assisted by Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine, vocalist, Mrs. E. D. Gibson, violinist, and Mrs. George Hall, accompanist.

For her first group of selections, Miss Krause played "Sarabande" from Suite for Violincello by Bach, transcribed for piano by Jan Chapusso, and "Fantasia" in C minor by Mozart.

Miss Krause's second group included "E Major Etude" and "F Minor Etude" by Chopin and "Liebestraume" (Notturno 11) by Liszt.

Mrs. Gibson played the following group of selections accompanied by Mrs. Hall: "Sonata" in B flat, Op. 137, No. 3; "Allegro Movement" by Schubert, "Spanish Dance," Op. 47, by Rehfield, and "Budjely" by Mana-Zucca.

Mrs. Hazeltine, accompanied by Mrs. Hall sang "A Dream" by Grieg, "When I Bring You Coloured Toys" and "The Sleep That Flits on Baby's Eyes," by Carpentier, and "Madrigal," by Sandoval.

Miss Krause concluded the program with "The Little Shepherd" and "Doctor Gradus ad Parnassum" from "Children's Corner," by Debussy, and "Recuerdos," by Santos.

When tea was served, Mrs. W. J. Tappan and Mrs. Edwin Mansfield presided over the table, which was decorated with a lovely spring flower arrangement.

Church Guild Has Officer Election At Monday Meet

Election of officers was held Monday night at the meeting of the Young Ladies' guild of the United Presbyterian church, held at the home of Mrs. Henry Senert, Dawson avenue. Assisting Mrs. Senert was Mrs. Merle Roberts.

Mrs. Jack Anthony was named as the president for the coming year. Other officers are Mrs. Fred Proctor, vice president; Mrs. Merle Roberts, secretary, and Miss Lucille Day, treasurer.

Mrs. Anthony led devotions for the group. Her subject of discussion was entitled "The Unconcealed Light."

Mrs. Lyne Robenstine, program chairman, introduced Miss Mary Geyer, teacher of religious education in the Mansfield public schools, who gave an interesting talk on her work.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Hugh Rust, the guild's president.

Two new members were welcomed into the guild at the meeting last night. They were Miss Geyer and Mrs. W. B. Smith. Mrs. J. Campbell White was the only guest present.

Guests enjoyed a social meeting following the business session. Luncheon was served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Anthony Bartley avenue, April 26. Mrs. Carl Boyd will be the associate hostess.

Miss Helen Hurst Guest Speaker At Little Flower Club

Miss Helen Hurst was the guest speaker when members and guests of the Little Flower Study club met Monday night for their regular business meeting at the home of Mrs. J. F. Ehalt, West Second street.

Mrs. Charles Harning of Detroit was an out of town guest. Dinner was served by the hostess, preceding the meeting.

The interesting subject chosen by Miss Hurst, was "The Associated Press." She traced the origin of news in Europe and related various stories pertaining to the history of the Associated Press. "Barriers Down" by Kent Cooper, was used throughout the discussion, as reference.

The next meeting of the Little Flower Study club will be held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Vassar, Beechwood Drive, April 12.

Fetes Son With Birthday Party

Mrs. J. M. DeVuie, a former resident of this city, now residing in Shelby, entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of her son, Dennis Ealey DeVuie's fourth birthday.

The afternoon was spent socially in playing games. Luncheon was served at 7 o'clock at a long table with pink and yellow appointment predominating. Dennis was the recipient of many gifts from his friends.

Those in attendance included Judy and Michael DeVuie, brother and sister of the honoree, Janet and Sandra Payue, Doris and Louise Dewey, all of Shelby, and Patricia Ann and Joan Ealey of Mansfield.

MANSFIELDER TAKES BRIDE IN OKLAHOMA

THERE was an atmosphere of spring in the Wesley Methodist church in Oklahoma City, Okla., when Miss Elizabeth Arlie Crowl, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stanford Crowl exchanged nuptial vows with Pfc. Curtis Lee Ryan of this city, in a setting of white gladioli and white snap dragons, and bridesmaids gowned in lovely pastel shades.

Rev. U. S. Schaul read the double ring ceremony at 7:30 Monday night. Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. Charles E. Cobb, organist, and Miss Betty McDonald, vocalist.

Miss McDonald sang "I Love you Truly," by Bond. Mrs. Cobb included the traditional wedding marches, "Oh, Promise Me," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" in her program.

Two seven branch candelabra and satin ribbons, marking pews completed the decorations in the church, where the bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. For her wedding, she chose a lovely gown of ivory satin with long sleeves, fashioned with a basque bodice, which was finished at the top with a net yoke and round neckline. Satin patterns were appliqued to the lower part of the yoke. The skirt of the gown extended into a long train.

The bride wore a coronet of rose point lace to hold in place her full tulle veil. Her bouquet was comprised of white tulips tied with white satin streamers.

Attending Miss Crowl was Miss Joan Myers, maid of honor, who wore pink chiffon and lace, styled with a full skirt and round neckline. She carried Talisman roses, yellow daisies and pansies. The gowns of the bridesmaids were fashioned similar to that of the maid of honor. Miss Bonnie Burke wore blue chiffon and carried sweet peas. Miss Betty Tinsel, wearing yellow chiffon, carried pink rose buds and pansies. Each wore narrow ribbon to match her gown, through her hair.

The bride's mother appeared at the wedding in a navy blue frock with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the bridegroom was unable to attend.

Ushers at the wedding were Paul Crowl, brother of the bride, Frank Hill and Kenneth Sageman, all of Oklahoma City, Hubert Heichelheim, close friend of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception in the church parlor for 90 guests was held by the bride's parents. Luncheon was served buffet style at a long table centered with a 5-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Luncheon was served by the light of candles in three branch candelabra, placed on either side of the cake.

When the newly married couple left on their wedding trip, the new Mrs. Ryan was wearing a two-piece white wool suit with blue accessories. She wore a varicolored sweet pea corsage. Upon their return they will reside at 2836 N. W. 13th street in Oklahoma City.

The former Miss Crowl is a graduate of Classen high school in Oklahoma City. After graduating from Blockwood Davis Business college, she accepted a position as bookkeeper at the Consolidated Gas company.

Pfc. Ryan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ryan, 641 Bowman street of this city. He is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school. He is stationed as a military policeman at the Will Rogers Field in Oklahoma.

Out of town guests at the wedding were from California and Colorado.

Study Club Has Regular Meet With Mrs. M. K. Leggett

Mrs. M. K. Leggett, Wellington avenue, was hostess Monday night to 23 members and one guest, Mrs. Paul M. Williams of Cleveland, when she entertained the Monday Study club. Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh assisted Mrs. Leggett.

During the business meeting, the secretary of the club named the officers for the coming year, as presented by the nominating committee. They are Mrs. Laurence Grabler, president; Mrs. Wilfred Workman, vice president; Miss Florence Conn, secretary and Mrs. Paul Weir, treasurer. Mrs. Wilbur Remy, Mrs. Harold Pry and Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh were named as the board of directors.

Mrs. M. S. White presented the talk of the afternoon, choosing "Ohio At Work" as her subject. Mrs. White explained that according to the 1939 census, Ohio ranks fourth, industrially, sixth, agriculturally, and second in the coke foundry steel works in manufacturing motor parts.

Now, in war work, Mrs. White went on to say, the battle line runs through the kitchen, with weapons being market lists, paring knives and sauce pans. To illustrate her paper, Russell Gimbel showed moving pictures. They were entitled "The 'V' Man" (the V meaning victory) and "Neat and Romance."

When refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Williams presided at the table. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Thorne, Parkview street.

Americans Can Learn English Food Lessons

Military information is not the only vital war material which is being traded among the United Nations. American housewives, too, are learning the many valuable nutrition lessons which English women have had to discover the hardest possible way—three years of actual war experience.

We are just starting to buy with points, but it is an old story to homemakers in England and they have learned to feed their families proper foods despite bombings, food shortages and the tremendously increased employment of women outside the home. As in this country, there has been great advance in the knowledge of the nutritional value of various foods, and some authorities report that British children are being fed better today than ever before.

Eat More Biscuits.

One of the results of the war has been the increased use of what the English call "biscuits," which correspond in general to our biscuits and cookies. The British teatime custom undoubtedly accounts for much biscuit eating there. Workers in factories and offices take time off at the fag end of the day to restore their energy with tea and biscuits.

This custom is growing in this country not only among defense workers, but also among homemakers. Women find that they can do more war and house work if they take fifteen minutes off in the afternoon for milk, tea or coffee together with some highly concentrated energy food, such as biscuits or crackers.

Fortunately in this country cereal products are not rationed and Americans can obtain a wide variety of biscuits and crackers. In England points are necessary for this type of food. Despite rationing, however, their consumption has increased because they provide so much energy while being convenient and economical.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN EFFECT YEAR PLANS

Governing Board Has Meeting With Mrs. Charles Kuntz, A. A. U. W. President; Complete Club Program for Remainder of the Year.

PLANS for the remainder of the club year, including a change of date to April 13 for their one party of the year, were made Monday night at a meeting of the governing board of the American Association of University Women, held at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles Kuntz.

Mrs. S. B. Vinson will be chairman of the "County Fair," a party scheduled for all members at the Prospect park pavilion at 7:30 p. m. April 13. This will be the next meeting of the group and election of officers for the next two years will be held at that time.

Miss Emma Waring, high school activities chairman, announced at the meeting last night that the date of the annual tea, which the association gives for senior girls, has been set forward to May 25, due to the earlier closing date of the schools this year. Miss Waring and Mrs. M. D. Harnly are co-chairmen for this event, which will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The May program meeting will feature Frank Peat of Bellville, who will speak on "Children's Illustrations."

Mrs. Harold Burns announced that a substantial contribution had been sent to the state fellowship chairman as a result of the voluntary contributions made by members.

The successful results obtained by personally contacting 150 clubs and organizations in behalf of the U. S. O. Victory Book campaign were pointed out by Civilian Defense Chairman Mrs. R. A. Rowlands. One hundred and nine clubs are on the honor roll at the library, with nearly fifty reporting 100 per cent participation.

Mrs. Dan Huber invited participation of University Women in the forthcoming Mansfield's Artists showings to be held in the Larwill room at the Public library April 18 to 26. Plans for an A. A. U. W. sponsored exhibit were deferred in preference to bringing an outstanding artist to appear before the group during the next program year.

Afternoon Rest Aids Housewife Avoid Fatigue

Are the times getting you down? Are you so fed up with sweaters and helmets that your nights are disturbed by dreams of clicking knitting needles? Do you feel sometimes that you simply can't roll another bandage, even though you are ashamed to admit it to anyone else?

Don't feel too badly. You are probably only over-tired. Today every patriotic woman is working harder than she ever did before. In addition, she still has to keep up her home, and the children require just as much care—perhaps even more in wartime—as in peace.

The solution? Take fifteen minutes off every afternoon for milk and crackers or tea and biscuits or even coffee, if you're lucky. War plants have discovered that the fatigue which slows down production is largely overcome by these rest periods. Busy housewives will be amazed to find how much better they feel and how much busier they can be if they spend fifteen minutes idling.

Biscuits and crackers are an ideal pick-up snack for these rest periods. They provide maximum energy at a minimum cost. Every housewife has them on her shelf so no preparation is necessary and fortunately they are a tasty accompaniment to any liquid refreshment which she might desire at that time.

If Cinderella Marries Her Prince

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

There's a jingle in one of Gilbert & Sulliven's operas—I believe its "Pinafore"—which goes

"Never mind the why and wherefore
Love can level rank, and therefore ———"

But can it? I never hear of one of those Cinderella marriages without having a pang for the future happiness of the girl. And the war has certainly produced a batch of them.

Lonesome boys in far-away posts, after the manner of man from the beginning, have fallen for a pair of lovely eyes, a saucy profile or twinkling feet in a dance. Then, when the boy is sent overseas, as often as not he sends little Cinderella home to visit his people. And the fat's in the fire for the girl.

If the boy is a genuine socialite (hateful, snobbish term) his family may look down their noses at the poor little bride, and her heart will break if she detects the faintest lift of an eyebrow over some queer pronunciation she may have—that is, if she's a sensitive person.

The greatest margin of safety for one of these Cinderella marriages is when the wife will frankly admit the difference between her husband's background and her own, and then have a long commonsense session with herself and decide to reach his family's level. She'll have to be a hard worker, do a good deal of studying and do it quietly without advertising the fact. Not the studying that comes out of books, my dears, but the kind that comes from observation.

If Cinderella murders the English language and she can detect it by the slightest wince on the part of her in-laws, it obviously wouldn't be a bad idea for her to do a little homework, or to attend an English class held at the Y. W. or some similar organization. Cinderella's greatest mistake will be to brood over her shortcomings and let herself be miserable. It's likely that some member of his family will be entirely human and glad to lend a hand. She'll be the one to make a friend of, and prove to be a real fairy godmother against the return of the Prince.

While Cinderella's young husband is overseas, the wife should make a point of keeping up with what's going on in the world. For example, he'll expect her to know something of the history of the places where he is stationed. So she'll appreciate properly his report of his experiences. If he has been sent to Great Britain, there are dozens of fascinating travel books from which to choose to brush up one's knowledge.

Women are adaptable creatures. And any girl who makes up her mind and sets herself to the task can overcome any of the provincialities or gaps in her education.

Wartime Make-Overs Glamorous

By SUSAN BARDEN
International Illustrated News Writer.

In former days make-over clothes were articles that most women were slightly ashamed of but now we are on a wartime basis and many materials are on priority lists, a woman who can do a job of renovating points to her work with pride.

Today the trick is to look smart in the things you have. But needless to say, last year's crop of dresses won't look particularly chic unless they are brought up to date with some of this year's fashion details.

Perhaps changing a neckline or a sleeve will bring an old model up to date. Maybe you can use the skirt of one dress or the top of another. And some dresses can be cut over, combined with some new material, and emerge as a charming 1943 version.

The first step in remaking a wardrobe is to make a list of the things on hand and then consider what type of outfits you will be needing most in the months to come. If you are going to be the outdoor type, then go in for country or sports clothes, but if you are planning to stay in town and do a lot of home entertaining, you will need hostess gowns and daytime town ensembles.

Show Different Leftovers.

The costumes in the three above pictures show how different are the models than can be made from leftovers.

The quilted jacket is a smart to wear with a black crepe evening skirt was made from a dressing gown. After the remodeling filigree buttons were added, and the old timer reappeared as glam our jacket that is perfect for dates and evening wear.

The basic black dress usually looks good even after a solid season of wear, but to build up your own morale the addition of a V-necked collar with crocheted medallion trim will make it look and feel like something new. The collar takes just a few odd bits of material and some crochet cotton, so it's easy to make the metamorphosis.

If you are going in for Victory gardening then it's a cinch you'll want something cool and washable to work in. The attractive pinafore was made from an old house dress. The sleeves and underarm sections were cut out and the midriff taken in and fitted. With it is worn a washable cotton shirt.

It's easy to teach that old wardrobe new tricks so get out your needle and thread and whip yourself up some smart numbers in your odd moments.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, March 31.

Extraordinary opportunity for testing and developing the initiative and constructive ability on sane, enduring and aggressive lines, is read from the very interesting chain of astral configurations. Public or group issues or major projects of wide scope may depend on decisive action and ingenuity which may attract support from powerful influences.

If It Is Your Birthday.

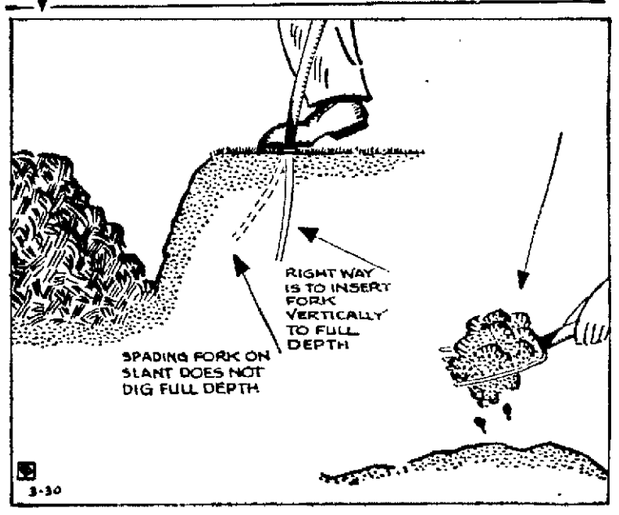

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year with much opportunity to test the sound abilities, skill and ingenuity, which may attract the support of those in power and authority. Intelligence, efficiency and decisive attack of large propositions may assure significant results.

A child born on this day should have unusual versatility and the ability to tackle large propositions in a big way; its skill, insight and stability may attract public and influential support.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Proper Soil Preparation For Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

(Released By Central Press Assn.)

It is vital this year that a Victory vegetable garden be a success. The right start is of utmost importance and this means proper preparation of the soil before the seeds are planted. The better the condition of the soil before the seeds are sown, the better the results will be at harvest time. Seeds grow more readily in a fine, well-prepared soil than in a coarse or lumpy one.

If the Victory garden area is large enough it should be plowed and harrowed but if the area is small it can be spaded by hand. As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph a digging fork is excellent for this purpose. Sink the tines of the fork straight down into the soil. When the fork is thrust into the ground at an angle the proper depth is not achieved, and when the soil is turned it does not adequately bury weeds or other refuse. The soil should be turned up to a depth of at least 6 or 8 inches.

The greatest mistake new gardeners usually make when turning up soil is in taking too large a "bite" with fork or spade. This naturally makes the work unnecessarily heavy and tiring. Start first with 3 to 4-inch slices.

In turning over a forkful of soil, break it up thoroughly as illustrated. Turning and breaking up the soil correctly helps to kill most of the weeds. It also loosens and aerates the soil and gives it a greater moisture holding capacity. Deep turning of the soil also helps to bring the plant food up from the lower levels, thus making it more available for the roots of the Victory vegetables.

Gracie Allen's Home Alman(i)ac

I've been trying to avoid the subject, but sooner or later I knew I would have to talk about fascinators. Fascinators are those things like U. S. Marine landing nets that women are wearing on top of their heads.

The fashion started during a hotel room party when someone threw a crocheted bathmat out the window which fell on a woman who was passing beneath. By the time she had managed to get the thing off, the woman received so many compliments on her appearance that she knew she had discovered something.

In fact, time may prove the discovery of fascinators every bit at important as that of the woman who while carrying a wash basket on her head, discovered for the first time that straight hair could be waved. Or the man who first propagandized long fingernails for women as a way of keeping his wife from going through his pockets every night.

Men aren't going to be able to complain about fascinators because they used to wear them too. Back in the Middle Ages, knights wore fascinators made out of chain mail to protect their skulls. Come to think of it the men in those days thought up the armor that was the forerunner of our modern corset. And there's a rumor that Sir Lancelot invented the slip to hide the fact that his legs weren't as good as those of King Arthur.

Really, the most fascinating thing about a fascinator is its name. A fish net by any other name wouldn't smell half so sweet.

I don't know who said that, but as Shakespeare tells us, all's well that ends well.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I went to my father's side with a very good notion of what he meant to say to me.

"Get Mary alone as soon as possible," he said, "and tell her to be ready, at any time after eight o'clock this morning, to stage that accident. Tell her to pass the word along to Noel.

"But the elder Veritzens must not be notified until after everything has been made plausible. I'll have Dr. Twitchell close at hand, so he'll lose no time getting there."

He spoke rapidly and insistently, finishing with a sharp "You understand everything that has to be done?"

"I am sure I do, Father," I said, then with a chuckling note in his voice he added "When you get a chance, congratulate Mary on her performance."

"You should have seen the whole performance," I murmured with a smile.

"Sorry, Georges," my father now said, "but we must go now."

"All ready, sir," the fugitive young King of Trees replied, and I smothered a smile at that "sir," which Georges probably had never spoken before except to his father and other royal personages.

Now he took Olina's hands in his and kissed them lingeringly, then turned to my father, after an impressive bow to Olga. As he followed my father out, Philip Veritzen turned to the rest of us.

Mary Still Acting.

"Sit down, all of you," he said. "The guest of honor has gone, but the evening is yet young."

"But I'm not, any longer, Dad dy dear," Mary said pertly, still keeping up her role, though Georges had gone.

"Old age is creeping on me," she went on. "I can't stand it any more. Remember, we had an early rehearsal to let John Hayes go through Steve's role for tonight, and I'm simply dead from the neck up—and down. So I'm going to beg off. You won't mind, Mother dear, if Noel and I run along, will you."

Her voice subtly changed as she addressed Olga, whom I know she reveres and loves, and for a second all trace of her meretricious role was gone.

"Of course not, my dear," Olga answered. "But do come up to see me as soon as you are rested tomorrow."

"You know I'll do that," Mary answered, with no hint in face or manner that it would be many days before her pretended accident would permit her to go anywhere outside her own apartment. Then she linked her arm into her husband's with a touch of bravado, again acting a role.

"Come on, Noel," she said. "You look exactly as if you were going to beat me up, and it wouldn't be nice to haul out your strap here."

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BLAME OTHERS

Your improvement will carry on at a great rate, and much farther, if you avoid the habit of blaming unsuccessful results on others and instead concentrate on finding what was the matter with your own action. Frank analysis will sometimes show you that you fumbled in the bidding first and then later on in the play,— not merely that you made unfortunate choices of moves you logically should have made.

	♠ Q 10 3 ♥ A 6 4 3 ♦ K 10 9 4 ♣ 9 3
♠ 7 6 5 2 ♥ 9 ♦ 8 7 2 ♣ J 8 6 4 2	N W E S	♠ 9 8 4 ♥ J 8 7 5 2 ♦ A 3 ♣ A Q 7
	♠ A K J ♥ K Q 10 ♦ Q J 6 5 ♣ K 10 5

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 NT
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

What a chance South lost by bidding that 1-No Trump instead of doubling. That would have given him just as good a chance to reach game in No Trumps and in addition would have afforded his partner an opportunity to pass the double. If North had felt that way about it, East would have been shellacked to a fare-thee-well. In case the first trump lead was from East or North, the defenders might well have taken four heart tricks, thus limiting East to one in hearts and his two aces, setting him four tricks worth 1100 points.

But even in his 3-No Trump play South failed. West led the club 4 and East was smart enough to play his Q instead of the A. South, fearing that West might have the A-J at the head of his suit, was afraid to let East win this and then come through his K. So he took that first trick. Now he had no way to run nine tricks without first letting East in with the diamond A. When he did that, East scored the club A and led the 7, so that West ran the rest of the suit, beating the contract.

Why didn't South, instead of growling at East for "foxing" him, do a little figuring when he saw the club Q played on the opening trick? He should have reasoned that East had to have the A for his bid, and so should have held up his K confidently. Then, when East later won with the diamond A, the club suit would have been dead and ten tricks for South would have been unstoppable.

* * *

Tomorrow's problem.

What would be your plan to score 6-Hearts on this deal against an opening of the diamond Q?

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's.

THEATERS

Story of Fortress.

"Air Force," Warner Brothers' film which deals with the war in the Pacific and of the feats of American fliers, is now showing at the Ohio. Taken from government files, the picture records the story of the Flying Fortress "Mary Ann" from the moment it takes off on a peaceful mission just prior to Dec. 7 until it arrives on Australian territory, having taken active part in the Coral sea battle. Featured in the cast are John Garfield, Gig Young, Harry Carey, George Tobias, Arthur Kennedy, James Brown, and John Ridgely.

* * *

Tip Off.

Priscilla Lane's simple, but slick wardrobe in "The Meanest Man in the World" affords an early cut to what young women will be wearing this spring. In the 20th Century-Fox comedy now at the Madison, Miss Lane is co-starred with Jack Benny. Rochester is featured, as are Edmund Gwenn, Anne Revere and Helene Reynolds. Co-attraction is "After Midnight With Boston Blackie," starring Chester Morris.

* * *

Roy Rogers.

"The King of the Cowboys," that's the title of Roy Rogers, now appearing in "Riding Down the Canyon," at the Park. It's a hard-hitting western in which Rogers rounds up a gang of murdering horse rustlers. "Friendly Enemies" is the other feature.

Mark down as another war casualty the annual physical education demonstration of Mansfield public schools which jammed Stadium field last year and the year before.

No, the children aren't being drafted for war work or army service, but cancellation of the big calisthenics show comes as a patriotic gesture.

Physical Director Harry Mehock explains that the show is being given up this year to save gasoline and tires of the 8,000 Mansfield parents and relatives of the school children who would be certain to attend the event.

* * *

There's no getting away from the fact that in the past two years the physical ed exhibition brought about the city's biggest concentration of automobiles for transportation of the children and spectators.

The fact may have passed unnoticed in the smooth-clicking parking arrangement and traffic handling worked out in advance by Mehock and Traffic Commissioner Frend Boals, but the cars were there by the thousands.

* * *

By hiding their muscle building light under bushel, the kids are keeping thousands of cars in the garage this spring, and making a real saving for their country.

* * *

Good news for Mansfield high school cagers: When Canton McKinley lost in the state finals to Newark Saturday night, it was the last game in the high school careers for Bill Cook, Vic Wernet, Earl Loucks, Ernie Parks, Bob Zimmer and Steve Kosmides.

And Dale Haverstock, a junior, expects to be called to the army this summer.

* * *

Annual boxing tournament at Ohio State Reformatory got under way Saturday without Physical Director George Allerding at ringside.

George went home with a bad cold Friday, and was running a temp Saturday, but he was reported on the mend yesterday although still not back on duty. It was his day off.

I wondered why nothing had been said about the fisticuffing fiesta.

Johnny Villella called his shots in the Inter-City doubles Sunday. "Jim and I are going to make that board tonight," he told me in the afternoon. A lot of people say things like that and you laugh 'em off. But John and Jim rolled into third place.

Junior Net Stars Ignore Big Wigs

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Two ranking junior amateur tennis players plan to ignore the "advice" of the United States Lawn Tennis association and appear in an exhibition match with pro net stars, Big Bill Tilden said today.

Accusing the tennis association of hampering the war effort, Tilden said that it had "advised" Bob Falkenburg, national boys champion, Bob Kring and Don Harris, ranking juniors not to appear with him in an exhibition match at Camp Hahn today.

* * *

King and Harris, Tilden said, will appear despite the association ban on joint appearances of amateur and professional tennis players. Harvey Snodgrass, a fellow-pro, will substitute for Falkenberg, the former world champion said.

* * *

Tilden, now a tennis instructor, said the exhibition had been suggested by Capt. Benjamin Bosley, Camp Hahn special service officer, and he had chosen youths under 18 and over-age pros to avoid suggestion that men of military age were devoting themselves solely to sport.

At the military camp, Sgt. Dean Bunday, member of Capt. Bosley's staff, expressed disappointment at the USLTA ruling.

Tilden emphasized his belief that the ruling, handed out by Perry T. Jones, secretary of the Southern California Tennis association, was purely impersonal and merely reflected national policy.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(U.P.)— Bucky Walters, veteran righthander who has been sidelined with an ankle injury, was expected to resume workouts with the Cincinnati Reds today.

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—(INS)— The long holdout siege of Joe Gordon, the Yankees star second baseman, was over today and he is now on his way to camp from Eugene, Ore.

First Base Troubles Indians

Indications Point To Otto Denning For Job.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. —(AP)— First base trouble continued to rear its ugly head in the Cleveland Indian camp here today, while Manager Lou Boudreau was trying to concentrate on some solution for his pitcher problems.

* * *

With the abbreviated training season obviating the possibility of a full-scale try-out for his junior hurlers, Boudreau still was faced with the chore of stuffing off at least four freshmen to pare his mound squad to battle strength.

* * *

Meanwhile the comings and goings around first base seemed to point to a definite assignment for Otto Denning, who came up to the Tribe last year, although there are extenuating circumstances as long as your arm.

Jeff Heath, at present holding out in favor of a shipyards job, is one circumstance. Another is the possibility that either Joe Vosmik or Rip Radcliff may be purchased by the Indians.

Such a purchase might alleviate the manpower shortage in the outer pastures, and permit Roy Cullenbine to return to competition for baseman No. 1.

Ray Mack, meanwhile, was informed today that his appeal for deferment from selective service may not receive final action for 30 to 60 days.

* * *

Boudreau, limping on an ankle injured slightly in an exhibition game with the LaFayette semi-pro Red Sox Sunday, sent the Tribe through a three-hour session of batting practice and infield drill today.

* * *

Next competition slated for the Indians will be tomorrow, when they square off against the Purdue university nine. Tribesmen, however, will be operating in the battery spots for both teams.

Newman and Brinkerhoff Decide Tourney Title.

Championship of the grade school basketball tournament will be decided tomorrow night at 7:30 at John Simpson junior high gym when Brinkerhoff and Newman tangle in the tourney finals. At 7 o'clock Bowman and Prospect meet for the consolation honors.

* * *

Newman moved into the finals yesterday with a 13-4 victory over West Fifth after both teams had gone scoreless in the opening period. West Fifth got a 2-1 lead in the second stanza, but Newman came back for a 7-3 margin in the third. Beal got eight points for the winners.

* * *

After gaining a 3-2 margin over Western in the first period, Bowman turned on the heat in the second quarter yesterday for a 16-4 lead at the half and coasted to a 22-4 victory in the consolation semi-finals. Carver tallied eight points for Bowman.

Fournier Named Toledo Manager

TOLEDO—(AP)— Jack Fournier, former big league player and scout, is the new manager of the Toledo Mud Hens of the American association.

G. E. Gilliland, president of the Toledo club, announced Fournier signed yesterday and would take charge of Mud Hen spring drills opening Thursday at Ohio University, Athens.

* * *

Fournier was named after Ralph Winegarner declined the appointment because of his draft status and retained his war job in Benton, Kas.

* * *

The new Toledo manager was an outfielder and first baseman during his playing career which included service in the Pacific Coast league with the Chicago White Sox in 1913, the New York Yankees in 1918, St. Louis Cardinals in 1920 and five years with Brooklyn starting in 1923.

He launched his managerial career with Newark of the International league in 1927 and recently has scouted for the St. Louis Browns, parent clubs of the Toledo Mudhens.

Practice Football As Army Training

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State university football players and hopefuls, some of them reporting just to get into condition for military service, begin spring practice today.

Coach Paul E. Brown, whose team won the western conference and national titles last year, threw open practice for the first time to anyone wanting to make a try at qualifying.

* * *

Brown expects those reporting to include half a dozen varsity players, a few freshmen and eight to ten 17-year-olds who enter the university in the spring quarter.

* * *

The mentor said "it would solve a lot of our problems" if the army would permit service men on the campus to play on varsity teams.

The squad will hear lectures and work out in the gymnasium this week and next and will move outdoors the following week. Practice winds up May 22 with the annual spring game.

Captain-elect Chuck Csuri will report, but he expects to be drafted soon as do many other Buck players.

SOX HAVE MEASLES

MEDFORD, Mass. —(INS)— German measles today invaded the Red Sox roster with Pitcher Yank Terry and Rookie Short-Stop Eddie Lake confined to bed.

Jimmy Holds Reins In Chicago Cub Camp

Manager Jimmy Wilson pilots the Chicago Cubs but piloting horses is something else. Taking his Cubs to their training camp site at French Lick Springs, Ind., in an old-fashioned tallyho, Jimmy got into trouble as the steeds headed for the ditch. The day was saved, however, as were a couple of hundred thousand dollars worth of ball players in and on the vehicle. Among those aboard are Lon Warneke, Bill and Paul Derringer, three of the National league mound aces.

Savings Bank Lead Sliced

Leppo Makes Sweep of Club Loop Honors.

Tracy-Avery sliced the Mansfield Savings bank lead in the Club kegling league to two games last night at Colony alleys, scoring a shutout victory while the loop-leaders were winning a 2-1 decision.

* * *

Johnny Leppo of the Savings bank swept scoring honors for the league with a 648 total and 256 game. A. Shepherd rolled 607 including a 232 game, Art Hilborn and D. Dalton had 603, and Jakie Hoff hit 600 on the nose.

* * *

H. Uplinger had a great start with 200-220 and then dropped to 141 in the last game.

PROBE RAY MACK'S STATUS IN DRAFT

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Selective Service officials today investigated the classification of Ray Mack, Cleveland Indian second baseman, whose reclassification put him from 3-A to 1-A, and who appealed to his local board after coming here from the training camp at Lafayette, Ind.

Draft Board No. 29 listed Mack as single since he was married when induction was imminent. The Macks, parents of one child, were married Oct. 16, 1940.

HEADED FOR ARMY

COLLEGE PARK, Md. —(INS)— Manager Ossie Bluege of the Washington Senators today said that it probably wouldn't be many more days before Joe Jacobs, his new rookie shortstop, receives his marching orders from Uncle Sam.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— In case you're wondering how Sailor Sammy Snead managed to knock off a couple of 67's in winning that Coronado, Calif., golf tournament last week end in spite of playing only when the Navy isn't keeping him busy; how Frankie Strafaci can continue to turn in low scores for his occasional rounds in Australia, etc., here's what sounds like a reasonable explanation . . . Ernest Jones, widely-known golf teacher who lost a leg in World War I, says that once a golfer learns the "feel" of the proper swing, he never entirely loses it so he doesn't need much practice . . . "On my first round after I came out of the hospital after losing a leg, I shot a 38-35 over my home course," Jones adds.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Sam Butz, Jacksonville (Fla) Times-Union "The stories from the northern training camps get funnier, if not longer, day by day. Manager Billy Southworth was quoted recently as being happy when the weather faced the Cardinals indoors at Caire after they had been outdoors for three whole days in a row. Maybe if Billy would get some of those crash helmets shipyard workers wear, they could stand that hot Cairo sun a bit better."

Although Haegg wants to come here this summer, arrangements haven't gone beyond an application for air travel priorities and the A.A.U. hasn't had any ruling on that . . . Oklahoma Aggies wrestlers, who haven't been able to get any competition all season, are planning to hitch-hike to New York for the A.A.U. championships in mid-April . . . In an even dozen fights before he retired, Henry Armstrong averaged 18,000 spectators and a $75,000 gate for each show.

Koogles Beat Loop Leaders

But Tellings Retain Margin of Six Games.

Koogle's Grocery bumped off the Commercial "C" league leading Tellings Sealtest 2-1 last night at Colony alleys, and the second-place Sons of Herman took advantage of the break, winning a 2-1 match and cutting the Sealtest lead to six games.

Young led the league scorers with a 596 total and a 236 game.

Rockets Fizzle In Cage Final

Lose To St. Johns In Championship Tilt.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Georgetown and the University of Wyoming meet in Madison Square Garden toninght for the National Collegiate A. A. basketball crown as St. John's Indians roam the "wilds of Brooklyn" with the national invitation tournament title.

The Redskins, led by Harry (High Pockets) Boykoff and swarthy Al Moschetti, captured the invitation championship before 18,233 fans in the Garden last night when they romped over the Toledo Rockets, 48 to 27. Boykoff, the six foot, nine inch center who was voted the tournament's outstanding player, and Moschetti each scored 13 points in the rout.

* * *

In winning, St. John's earned the right to face the Georgetown-Wyoming victor Thursday night in a Red Cross benefit. Wyoming, NCAA western regional champion on the basis of triumphs over Oklahoma and Texas, ruled a slight favorite in the benefit game. Georgetown won the eastern regional collegiate crown by stopping N. Y. U. and DePaul.

* * *

St. John's took the invitation laurels in the feature of a double-header which saw Washington and Jefferson's Presidents gain consolation honors with a 39-34 victory over Fordham's Rams. Huck Hartman and Tom Mears paced the winners with 10 points each.

Boykoff, who contributed a total of 43 points in early round wins over Rice and Fordham, was outstanding both on offense and defense last night. Toledo's all-freshman team, which reached the finals with victories over Manhattan and Washington and Jefferson, was paced by Guard Dallas Zuber, who racked up nine points, but the Rockets couldn't match the superior St. John's height advantage, which allowed the Indians to control the play under the basket.

Benny Picks Armstrong

Leonard Says Henry Too Smart For Jack.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Lieut. Benny Leonard of the U. S. maritime service, an ex-champion who once tried to come back, sat in Stillman's gymnasium watching Henry Armstrong, an ex-champion who is trying to come back.

* * *

As Armstrong went through his training paces with Sparmate Sammy Daniels, Lieut. Leonard said, "I'm going to surprise you with my prediction for Friday night's fight. I pick Armstrong to lick Beau Jack."

* * *

We were properly surprised at Bennah's forecast because the betting odds favor Lightweight Champion Beau Jack at 11-5. Moreover, Leonard was picking a man of 30—a guy apparently "over the hill"—to beat a strong, hard-hitting youngster of 22.

The lieutenant in the natty blue uniform continued, "Armstrong at 30 is still an unusual athlete physically and one of the smartest boxers I've ever seen. He knows too much for Beau Jack, and he still has the body to put that knowledge into operation.

* * *

"In spite of all the publicity Armstrong received while winning the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight titles, he never was given enough recognition for his cleverness. The experts and fans concentrated on his punching ability, his perpetual-motion stamina and his bobbing and weaving style. He wasn't recognized as clever because he was not a stand-up boxer like Billy Conn or myself."

Leonard generally rated the smartest of all lightweight kings, emphasized that Armstrong is a brilliant "fighter of the Jack Dempsey type. He said few people ever gave Dempsey credit for his ring brilliance—for his intelligent execution. Most observers appreciated only the Manassa mauler's dynamic punching.

Leonard stressed that Armstrong's return to the ring actually is not a "come-back." He explained that genuine come-backs were attempted only by men who had been out of the ring for years—like Jim Jeffries, and like Leonard, himself, when Benny tried to lick Jimmy McLarnin. He said Armstrong merely had a rest for a few months while his eyes healed.

BLACK-OUT IN LUCAS PRAISED BY CD LEADERS

Village, Nearby Area Darkens Lights In First Test; All Wardens Report.

LUCAS—The first black-out test for the village of Lucas and neighboring residents, conducted at 9 p. m. Monday, was appraised by local civilian defense and air raid officials as "one hundred per cent successful."

Within two minutes after the sounding of the "blue" warning all of the village's air raid wardens had reported "on duty" by telephone to Mayor Arthur Darling, civilian defense commander, and Walter Pritchard, chief air raid warden, who had established headquarters in the village hall.

At the close of the blackout the entire staff of wardens and officials met in the village headquarters to report on the success of the test.

The principal problem revealed by the test Monday night was that the lone siren, located in a down-town section of the village, could not be heard in many outlying districts.

SAILOR GIVES FIRSTHAND STORY OF BOMBING OF GUNBOAT PANAY

GALION — One of the first casualties of American-Japanese warfare, P. D. Zeigler, veteran sailor, who was aboard the U. S. gunboat "Panay" when it was bombed in 1937, was the speaker Monday night at the Galion Rotary meeting at Hotel Talbott.

Zeigler said he joined the navy after high school graduation and trained at Great Lakes, Ill., later going to San Diego, Calif., and then on to a destroyer to spend 11 months. He was later located at Pearl Harbor for three years. Returning to the United States, he requested to be transferred to an Asiatic station and was sent to Shanghai.

From there he was stationed on the Sacramento, and later went by rail to Nanking where he boarded the Panay. He gave a description of this ship and sister ships that were on Yangtse patrol. Going up the river, the boat stopped at Hankow which he described as the "Chicago" of China. The gorges in the river at this point were extremely picturesque, Zeigler said. He told of the cliffs that rise thousands of feet from the river.

On Aug. 27, 1937, he said the ship was at Chungking when the commander received orders to go to Hankow for supplies, and then to Nanking to take aboard any Americans who wanted to leave because of the Japanese-Chinese conflict. He described the bombing of the city and the city's capture by the Japs on Dec. 11. He said that after the Japs had bombed the airport for 90 days, so little damage was done that they were able to land their own bombers there.

The Panay, he said, then moved up the river to keep out of danger, and two days later it was shelled by Japanese artillery. The shelling continued even after the boat started up the river. It was anchored at Pheasant Island waiting for orders when early in the afternoon Jap planes came over at 7,000 feet and dropped three bombs which were all direct hits, one bomb bursting only a few feet from where Zeigler was sleeping. This wave of planes was followed by 15 planes which bombed the ship for one hour and 15 minutes, he said.

All 70 men of the crew were removed from the sinking Panay to boats, and as the boats were going ashore they were machine-gunned and more men were wounded.

The men landed along a reed-lined shore of the river and hid there for some time. Forty-three were wounded and 17 were stretcher cases, Zeigler stated.

There were no medical supplies available except a few bandages, two or three pints of alcohol and a few morphine tablets.

The men finally started walking toward Hankow, 150 miles away, when they received orders to return to the scene of the Panay sinking. They were taken aboard the "Ladybird," an English gun boat which was escorted by Japanese destroyers. The wounded of the Panay were treated at Shanghai and then removed to Cavite, P. I., and later to the United States.

Zeigler was finally honorably discharged because of disability.

He was accompanied to Galion Monday night by J. H. Kelly.

ASHLAND'S TAX DELINQUENCIES CUT BY $18,110

Real Estate Collections Close With $301,610 Received on Half Year's Charge.

ASHLAND — Reduction of Ashland county's real estate tax delinquency by a sum of $18,110.49 in the recently ended collection period has been announced by Karl K. Kick, Ashland county treasurer. Of the remaining $13,000 in delinquencies to be paid, one delinquency of $10,000 is being paid off in installments under the provisions of the Whittemore act.

Total collection for the first half of 1942 real estate amounted to $301,610.40, according to Kick, the total establishing a new collection record by more than $1,500.

ASHLAND - - A demonstration air raid siren is expected to arrive here in time for use in the 20-county area blackout in which Ashland county will participate Tuesday, April 6, it was announced today by Donald E. Clark, commander of the Ashland civilian defense council.

The siren has been shipped from the factory and should arrive any day now, according to Clark. For the recent local dim-out recently, three factory whistles were used as signals for the turning out of lights. If the new siren arrives, it will serve as the signal for the entire city, since it is guaranteed to be heard for a distance of four miles. The siren will be installed on a local factory where it will operate by steam power.

Test of the siren is to be made prior to the blackout if it arrives in time, Clark stated.

YOU MUST LAY EGGS FOR 10,000,000 SOLDIERS

Patriotic money-wise citizens must rally to Uncle Sam's need for more and still more eggs.

The war budget probably provides $1,500,000,000 for eggs in 1943. Civilians will buy around $11,500,000,000 worth. Something like $2,000,000,000 more will go to our Allies. An estimated total of $15,000,000,000 in eggs.

YOU can share the profits and the glory of this "must" job and have fun doing it.

Raising chickens is simple. They need never leave the coop. Ask any reputable hatchery how a small investment can start YOU on the road to service and profit.

To get off with a bang turn NOW to 'Poultry and Supplies' in the Want Ads.

JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern

NOAH NUMSKULL

CHUCKLES

Daniel Boone didn't have it so tough. He could have had cuffs on his buckskin trousers—if he wanted to.

The man at the next desk, a budding author, said he dreamed last night that he wrote a series of books as popular as those three volumes "Sugar and Coffee," "Gasoline" and "Canned Goods."

STOCK LEADERS STILL REACHING FOR NEW HIGHS

Crude Oil Production Drops 30,730 Barrels From Preceding Week.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks continued to reach for new highs in today's early market proceedings.

Up fractions at an active opening were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Standard Oil (NJ), Union Carbide, U. S. Rubber, Pennsylvania and Johns-Manville.

Analysts who have been watching oils noted the compilation of the Oil and Gas Journal disclosing domestic crude production in the week ended March 27 averaged 3,912,170 barrels daily, a drop of 30,730 from the previous week.

REPORT DUE

Grand Jury Ruling In Murder Case Expected Today.

BUCYRUS — The Crawford county grand jury was expected to report tonight after a two-day session which included investigation of the slaying of Mrs. Wilma Reed, 29, Bucyrus waitress, March 21 in her apartment here.

Pvt. Glore Bevard, 33, who had shared the apartment with Mrs. Reed, confessed the slaying last Friday, police said, and is being held without bond in the Crawford county jail on a first degree murder charge.

Authorities quoted Pvt. Bevard, stationed at Camp Millard, as saying that he choked and beat Mrs. Reed to death after she struck and hit him during an argument. He hid in the woods and a barn near Bucyrus for four days before giving himself up to officers at the camp.

Eight women and seven men comprise the panel which had only five other cases to investigate.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—One good thing about this trip of Anthony Eden's over here is that, contrary to the unfortunate experience with the Casablanca conference, this affair has not been overballeyhooed.

The British foreign minister will go back home without there having been any tremendous announcements. No one has been led to expect sensational developments. The Casablanca conference was attended by an enormous amount of advance rumors and hints so that big things were expected.

Clapper

Actually little could be said in the communique. That vagueness caused a general feeling that the conference had not lived up to expectations, although it was never in the cards that much could have been said about the Casablanca conference once Stalin had refused to have anything to do with the meeting.

* * *

The Eden visit has not been attended with the spotlight and prominence which have surrounded that of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek. There has never been any question of his attempting to influence the American public over the head of the government. Secretary Eden's one speech, at Annapolis, is not one that attempts in any way to alter the policy of the American government. It was pointed up rather to support the position already taken by President Roosevelt and most administration spokesmen in declaring for a United Nations with force to prevent future aggression.

* * *

The Eden visit has been essentially a personal exchange of ideas and thinking out loud, between him and the president and Secretary Hull. In addition Mr. Eden has talked with a large number of Americans, both in and out of official life, always off the record and seemingly with frankness. Equally important, he has been sounding out Americans, because the British want, more than anything else at this time, to know what America is likely to do. They want very much to know whether the country, and particularly the senate, is likely to support the general attitude of the administration, or whether it is to be another Wilson affair all over again.

* * *

Undoubtedly we know just about what the top men in the British government are thinking with regard to what might be done about Germany—whether she is to be set up as a republic again, or divided into separate states, for instance. Undoubtedly Mr. Eden knows what our top people are thinking about possible solutions of that question, and about the frontiers of eastern Europe. That does not mean at all that decisions have been made. Alternative solutions are discussed. The advantages and disadvantages of each may be canvassed. Individuals may express their personal preferences on a tentative basis.

Another thing is the British sensitiveness to anti-British feeling in America. The British are apt to exaggerate it. For instance, some of them, concerned over what we think about India, may feel that something very deep is going on. Actually I doubt if very much of anything is going on here about India. British treatment of the Congress party and leaders is hard to justify. But Gandhi's fast was a propaganda flop and Americans lost interest, which is the reason for the silence in America on the Indian question.

It was different a year ago, when the Japanese were about to invade India and when there was a chance of the British patching it up with the Congress party. Neither eventuality is possible now, so Americans, if they think about the matter at all, are apt to file it quietly away in the future book.

* * *

The British and ourselves have strong enough mutual interests to make it advisable that we regard each other as preparing for an extension of the wartime partnership with Russia, China and other United Nations members of the partnership. A partnership is an association for mutual benefit. That's what is working up among the principal Allied nations. And this visit here with its meeting of minds obviously has resulted in progress toward that end.

A few weeks ago all the newspapers played up the human interest tale about a beautiful ex-showgirl, Ruthenia Kennatt, who begged the courts to return to her her 10-months-old baby whom she had given away for adoption eight days after its birth. The child's father, it was revealed, was Louis Hartog, now a soldier.

The infant's foster-parents, a Mr. and Mrs. Schneider of the Bronx, fought to keep the tot, but Supreme Court Justice McGeehan—who Solomon'd the case—ruled in favor of Miss Kennatt when she proved that she had become a defense worker at the Sperry plant in Brooklyn, at $45 a week and could support her baby. When the decision was handed down on Feb. 11, readers hailed the court's reunion of the mother and child and hoped that Ruthenia would be able to make ends meet.

The sequel to that real life drama—which none of the gazettes picked up—is just like the final chapter of a motion picture. Soon after the decision, the baby's father, Louis Hartog, inherited a fortune from his grandmother!

New York cafe society is wasting a lot of wordage these days gossiping about a fabulously wealthy heiress, well over 60, and her handsome detective boy friend, who is married and about half her age. She loves the bright lights (he doesn't hate them) and they used to be seen together often at the Stork and El Morocco and other swank bistros until an anonymous meddler tipped off police headquarters and the young sleuth's superiors had him on the carpet to explain how he could afford such expensive play-places, as well as diamond studs and sapphire cufflinks. The lad had to confess the gigolo act to prove that the money didn't come from nefarious sources.

Now the May-December duo does all its tete-a-tete-ing in small tearooms and out-of-the-way places, where the glamour gossips don't go. And the ironic part of the tale is that they're just hiding from the police department—not from the attractive young detective's wife, who knows, but doesn't care!

Al Jolson is still burning at the movie company that long-distanced him from Hollywood to offer him a fabulous sum to sing the songs for the sound-track of "The Life of Al Jolson" and followed the offer by saying, "But who do you think we could get to play Al Jolson?" . . . Al said, "Why not Mickey Rooney?" and is going to the coast to straighten out the matter. (And maybe to prove he's just Al Jolson's type?)

IN HOLLYWOOD-- By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Alan Carney is the new and wholesome answer to Hollywood's demand for new faces. Carney has brought his own broad Irish visage to pictures along with half a dozen other faces he puts on and takes off at will.

This young comedian from the "saloon circuit" is also a different answer to that old saying about printer's ink. Carney not only got it out of his blood but he ran away from it.

He is 31, a stocky, black-haired, Irish-American [illegible] from Brooklyn. His real name is David Boughal, and he was set to follow in his dad's footsteps as a printer. "Big Ed" Boughal was and is a leader in the typographical union and wanted his boy to follow the craft. His boy wanted to be an actor, but he kept at the printing until he was 23. "Big Ed" is reconciled to it now, but there was a time he didn't care for an actor in the family.

Coons

* * *

Carney came by his stock of "faces" simply by studying people—cops, New York street characters, soap box orators, Bowery bums, all kinds of people—and he made impersonations his stock-in-trade. He gives devastating "portraits" of Edward G. Robinson, Charles Laughton, Mayor LaGuardia, Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore and others.

For a time Carney kept up printing by day and played on the stage at night, keeping the latter a secret from his family, but after he won first prize at an amateur night he gave up working for a journeyman's card. The applause got him, as it still does.

"All of us on the saloon circuit," he says, "want to get into pictures. I know fellows making thousands a week who still aren't happy, either because they can't get into pictures or haven't clicked when they did."

The "saloon circuit," of course, is the night club route. Carney has played some of the best. He was playing one in San Francisco four years ago when Cary Grant, in the audience, tipped him he should try for pictures.

* * *

But Carney kept on the "saloon circuit" a while longer, alternating with theater performances, until he got a call from Hollywood. The picture was "Mr. Lucky," starring Cary Grant. That's the story that Grant had RKO buy for him, and then followed through by sitting in on the casting and other details. Cary was looking over candidates for the role of The Crunk, hero Grant's comedy bodyguard, when Alan Carney appeared. All Carney had to do was remind Cary of San Francisco—he was "in" without a test.

"I was up to around $2,000 a week on the saloon circuit," he says, "but I'm in pictures for a lot less. I figure it'll be worth it when I get back to playing the circuit and the theaters. They pay the big money for names and if you get one in pictures you can practically name your fee."

Carney seems to be on his way to becoming that kind of name. His first role brought a term contract, and I wouldn't be surprised if before too long he had a niche of his own as a character comic.

LESS THAN 300 OHIO EMPLOYERS FILE SCHEDULES

Job Deferment Chief Declares Failure To Act Brings Worker Dislocation.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Many Ohio manufacturers have failed to submit "replacement schedules" to state selective service headquarters causing dislocation of personnel when younger workers are taken from their plants for the armed services, it was reported today.

Lt. Col. Furman D. Spencer, head of the occupational deferment division at state headquarters, said that less than 300 of Ohio's hundreds of war plants have submitted the optional replacement schedules to state headquarters. Failure to file them, he said, interferes with orderly and efficient induction of men into service.

"Many Ohio manufacturers have neglected to take advantage of the replacement schedule," Spencer said, "and as a result dozens of them are now complaining that they are being robbed of their workers.

"Some of them find it difficult to realize that they must schedule their manpower just as they schedule materials and if they fail to do so there are bound to be difficulties."

However, some of the largest war plant employers in Ohio, including Curtiss-Wright, Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, and the Wright Aeroneutical Corp., have submitted schedules.

"The employers must be realistic about the situation," Capt. Lester J. Burbridge, assistant to Col. Spencer, said. "The army and navy must have men to fight the war; the plants must have men to produce the materials.

"Yet a lot of war manufacturers want to hang on to the younger men they have instead of training others to take their places so we can get the fighting men we need."

WILL REGISTER

Grocers Required To Fill Out OPA Form Before April 10.

Grocers will be faced Thursday with another Office of Price Administration registration since April 1 marks the one-month birthday of the point rationing of processed foods.

They will be required to fill out an OPA form, obtainable at the ration board, and file it between April 1 and 10, with the ration board. After the first month's ration period, when they operated without a fixed inventory, grocers must calculate an "allowable inventory" by multiplying the total number of points received from the sale of processed foods during the first month by a fixed number which the OPA will announce.

This operation entails the keeping of detailed record of sale, or else an enormous counting process if the stamps are allowed to accumulate uncounted for the entire period.

In the event gross food sales during the first rationing period were less than $200, certain items on the OPA form need not be filled out, ration officials said. If the stock of processed foods was too small to enable operation during the first month of rationing, a point allotment may be allowed upon application to the ration board.

J. D. Mathys, Barber In Mansfield 32 Years, Succumbs

J. D. MATHYS

Joseph D. Mathys, proprietor of the Mansfield-Leland barber shop, died early this morning at Mansfield General hospital where he had been taken after suffering a heart attack Saturday evening at his shop.

Mr. Mathys was born in Cleveland, Jan. 24, 1886, and came to Mansfield 32 years ago and had operated barber shops since. He lived at 297 Marion avenue.

He was a past president of the Master Barbers' Association, a charter member of the Frank Marquis Lodge of Masons, a member of the Chapter and Council and the Grotto and a member of the Chamber of Commerce. He was recently appointed Air Raid Warden for his district.

Surviving are his wife, Margaret Mathys; two brothers, Armin of Cleveland; and John of San Francisco; and two sisters, Mrs. A. W. Autisdale of Pasadena, Calif.; and Mrs. J. C. Allen of Rochester, N. Y.

The body is now at the Jones Memorial where services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m., conducted by Rev. E. G. Corwin. Officers of the Frank Marquis lodge will conduct the service at the grave. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

DEADLINE NEAR FOR LICENSES

County War Board Warns That Butchers, Farmers Must Have Them By Thursday.

While there has been no rush for livestock slaughter permits such as the rationing boards have experienced, the Richland county agricultural war board is busy issuing licenses to butchers and farmers who must have them by midnight Wednesday to comply with the law.

War board headquarters at the Triple-A office on North Diamond street issued nearly 20 permits Monday, most of them to Mansfield butchers, and anticipated a bigger day today.

There's no charge for the meat permits, but everyone who slaughters animals for sale must have a license after tomorrow night or be considered a "black market" dealer.

Guy L. Taylor, county war board chairman, pointed out that the government regulations cover cattle, calves, hogs, sheep, and lambs butchered by meat dealers or on the farm for sale. A farmer who uses all the meat on his own farm doesn't need a license for butchering.

The slaughterer's permit number must be stamped on every wholesale cut of meat he sells. Taylor urged farmers to keep accurate records of every animal they buy or sell, whether for meat or breeding purposes. The record, he said, should contain the number of animals, description and weight, and the name and address of the person with whom the deal was made.

"Make sure that a livestock dealer has a permit before you sell him your livestock," Taylor warned farmers. If livestock is kept for less than 30 days, the owner usually is considered a dealer and must have a permit to continue to buy and sell, he added.

JUDGE P. M. CROW DIES AT LIMA

Dean of Ohio Jurists Served on Bench Continuously Since 1910.

(By International News Service)

LIMA—Judge Phil M. Crow of the third district appellate court and dean of Ohio jurists, was dead today of a heart attack.

Judge Crow suffered the attack while spending the evening with friends in the Lima club's quarters at the Argonne hotel. Judge Crow excused himself and when he failed to return, friends investigated and found him on the floor of the bathroom. Taken to a hospital, he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

A native of Kenton, Judge Crow maintained a legal residence there although he lived for many years in Lima where the court is located.

Judge Crow was first elected in 1910 to the circuit court, as the appellate court was known then. He had served continuously since then and was in his sixth six-year term at the time of his death. Before being elected to the court, he served for a time as law clerk in the treasury department at Washington under President Cleveland.

At one time, Judge Crow turned down the offer of Gov. James M. Cox of appointment to the Ohio supreme court. Fellow jurists said his decisions were among the most polished of those handed in any Ohio court.

His wife died last fall. A nationally-known artist, she signed her work, L. A. Crow.

Surviving members on the third district bench are Judges Charles Guernsey and Walter S. Jackson. The district includes Allen, Auglaize, Crawford, Hancock, Hardin, Henry, Logan, Marion, Mercer, Paulding, Putnam, Seneca, Union, Van Wert and Wyandot counties.

WOUNDED MAN SURRENDERS ON MURDER COUNT

Gives Up To Minister After Barricading Self In Home With Family.

(By United Press)

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Frank Hopkins, wounded farmer, surrendered to a Lexington minister on a murder charge today after barricading himself in his home for nearly 24 hours, threatening to kill his wife and four children if any attempt were made to arrest him.

Hopkins, 45, who withstood a constant siege of his farm shack since he shot and killed Andrew Pierson, 50, and was himself wounded, at mid-morning yesterday, gave up to the Rev. Dr. J. Archer Gray and was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital in a critical condition from loss of blood.

Hopkins' wife and children were unharmed. They remained in their home under guard of state militiamen.

The farmer was wounded in the right shoulder during the fight with Pierson, a wealthy contractor and tobacco grower. Pierson had shot Hopkins with a small rifle after accusing him of thefts from his barn near Hopkins' home.

Hopkins fled to his home. When officers arrived, he said he would "see my wife and children dead before I will give up."

Hopkins called for Gray last night, but still refused to give up. The minister entered his home this morning, however, and the farmer agreed to go to a hospital.

Hopkins barricaded himself and his family yesterday.

Several times during the night, Sheriff J. Porter Land approached the shack in an improvised armored car and sought to persuade Hopkins to surrender. Land was convinced that Hopkins was demented, and feared he would carry out his threat to kill his family.

DIES ON STREET

W. S. Garver, 67, Stricken With Heart Attack.

Walter Scott Garver, 67, of 20½ South Main street, fell dead of a heart attack while walking on North Main street Monday afternoon.

expected to be ruled out on parliamentary grounds.

One of the first amendments to the Carlson-Ruml plan considered will be one proposed by Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, (R-Conn.), which she says would:

"Abate all of the 1942 tax on taxable income up to $25,000; abate the portion of the 1942 tax attributable to the first $25,000 for persons who make more than that figure, and permit the taxpayer who makes more than $25,000 taxable income to spread his payments over a period of five years."

General debate on the pay-as-you-go question ended yesterday.

Cox insisted that adoption of the Ruml, Robertson or any similar forgiveness plan would constitute "the most gigantic steal in all history." Rep. Wesley E. Disney, (D-Okla.), accused the Republicans of proposing a "bonus to congressmen" plan which would put the members in the position of forgiving $2,100 of their $10,000 salaries.

BRITISH RAVAGE BERLIN AGAIN

Lose 33 Bombers In Second Giant Raid In 3 Nights on Capital.

hit was scored on one house and some casualties were reported.

Expected German reprisal attacks upon London, however, failed again to materialize during the night.

Authoritative sources said a few enemy raiders had dropped bombs at one or two scattered places on the coast of East Anglia, but declared no casualties and no damage had been reported.

The Berlin radio declared Nazi raiders had made a concentrated attack on the industrial city of Norwich.

In keeping with their smashing day and night assaults on the continent, which were renewed March 25 with a heavy raid on Duisburg, the Allies were keeping a promise to hit at the enemy every time the weather permits.

The offensive was kept going during the daylight hours yesterday when American-built Ventura bombers of the RAF attacked enemy shipping at Rotterdam, industrial targets in The Netherlands and railway yards at Abbeville in France.

As they struck smoke was reported still rising high above the big German submarine base at St. Nazaire, which was subjected to a terific bombardment by the RAF Sunday night.

The ministry of information reported the attack had razed most of the remaining buildings in the port, which had been hit 45 times before by British and American bombers. The ministry quoted German reports as saying only 500 of the 48,000 persons who once lived in the city were still residing there.

The German-controlled Paris meanwhile, reported that a Sunday afternoon raid on Rouen by American bombers had killed 96 persons and left thousands homeless.

Last night's losses were the highest the RAF has suffered in a single night's raid since Sept. 16-17, 1942, when 39 bombers failed to return from widespread raids on the Ruhr.

It was the second costliest attack on Berlin. Twenty aircraft were reported missing from the Jan. 17-18 raid.

Observers concluded that last night's assault either was made by a much larger force of bombers than usual or that the defenses of the city had been strengthened greatly.

The biggest loss ever suffered by the RAF in a single night was 52 bombers in the 1,000-bomber raid on Bremen and other targets on the night of June 25-26, 1942. Twenty-three were missing from the Essen raid on March 12-13 when the Krupp works were damaged heavily.

As Minute Men 'Graduated' In First Aid

HAVE FUN AT BOND AUCTION

Minute Men Sell $6,500 Worth, Pound of Coffee Brings $5,000 Price.

Richland county's minute men—the men who would be bad medicine for any saboteur—are also money men.

They demonstrated that last night by buying a pound of coffee for $5,000, and going on to equally fantastic transactions, involving equally scarce commodities.

The bond auction was the highlight of a dinner the Minute Men held last night at Scotty's Tavern in celebration of their completion of a 10-week course in first aid and as a tribute to Leroy McGinty, first aid instructor.

The $5,000 bond purchaser was Minute Man Lee Stone. Two of $500 denominations sold to Harry Mercer. Ora Yoha bought a $250 bond and C. D. Sherrard and Harvey Fleck each bought $200 bonds.

The bidding was spirited with S. H. Cramer, Richland county probate judge, acting as auctioneer, and Sherm Wentz, Minute Man treasurer, serving as clerk.

First aid certificates were presented to the various members completing the course and as a token of appreciation for his services, the organization presented McGinty with a $100 war bond.

The Minute Men are a volunteer group, who will aid sheriff's forces in the event of trouble in the area. Nucleus of the organization is a group of big game hunters, who are pretty keen men with a rifle sight in front of their eyes.

A brief drill was later conducted by Capt. Fleck. Talks were given by Guy Stewart, county commissioner, and Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, during the dinner hour.

Richland county's Minute Men, civilian defense protective unit made up mostly of big game hunters, received Red Cross first aid graduation certificates at a dinner last night. Members of the group are shown in the top photo. They are, front row, left to right, C. D. Sherrard, Capt. Harvey Fleck, Harold Olinger, C. A. Hassinger, Harry Mercer, Phil Dickerson, Ora Yoha. patch, the Germans are heavily reinforcing El Hamma with anti-tank guns and artillery under an unmerciful shelling by British tanks and guns.

Apparently German Marshal Erwin Rommel at last has realized the full strength of this drive. When the Eighth army's initial frontal attack failed to smash through the coastal sector of the Mareth line, new strength was added to this flanking force.

Crack troops were sent through the Matmata hills and in effect turned the southern end of the Mareth line, capturing Toujane and Halout in hand-to-hand fights.

The strong flanking column's wide sweep around the southern end of the line to the El Hamma area was by far the boldest stroke yet attempted by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery in his 1,800-mile pursuit of Rommel's Afrika korps.

Moreover, it seems about to achieve a decisive result which will enable the Eighth army to throw its power, weight and strength behind the Anglo-American-French struggle to throw the Axis into the sea along the length of the Tunisian coastal corridor.

This force plowed through 200 miles of soft, clawing sand, through arid rolling desert and around the Matmata hills. For 10 days, thousands of vehicles, as well as a contingent of tanks fought sand, wind and a broiling sun as they picked off isolated pockets of Italian and some German troops to reach finally the important pass between Djebel Melad and Djebel Tebaga, 15 miles southwest of El Hamma.

In this pass was fought the first major battle. At 4 p. m. Friday, British infantry and some armor unleashed a lightning attack against German anti-tank guns, artillery and infantry positions and overran them before dusk, capturing more than 1,000 prisoners, mostly Germans.

Under cover of darkness, the formation of tanks passed through most of the infantry position and drove on toward El Hamma, fighting several minor battles with isolated German pockets of resistance.

In the moonlight, the infantry forces which had carried the main weight of the initial assault began mopping up operations and found that a number of German tanks had been bypassed in the initial assault.

Numerous small German units, manning machine-guns and light mobile artillery and mortars, also began popping from holes in which they had dug when overwhelmed by the first wave of attack.

However, the attack had gained its objective, a wadi crossing road into El Hamma from the southwest, and the British tanks decided to turn back and fight the German tanks while they had the chance.

A violent, confused battle raged throughout yesterday, rolling over the scrub-covered desert hills as tanks fought infantry, the British struggling to clear the communications line menaced by the Germans who had stayed behind to hamped the Allied supply columns.

The battle ended with the German tanks winding through the wadis southeast of El Hamma toward Gabes.

the senate returned to committee the Pace bill which would include all farm labor costs in the computition of parity, lest it give Lewis a powerful weapon in his fight for higher wages.

Lewis' miners have received more than the 15 per cent increase since Jan. 1, 1941, permissible under the war labor board's little steel formula. They are demanding $2 a day additional on the ground that the mine wage of $7 a day still is not on a par with rising living costs and other industrial wages.

Connally's bill would set up a three-man "defense wage board" to rule on questions of wage adjustment. The board would be charged with investigating living costs, comparable pay for comparable work and such factors. It would then have authority, with approval of the president, to order adjustment of any inequities it found and would be the final authority, not subject to review of any kind.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, met operators of the Northern Applachian soft coal mines across the conference table today when the negotiating subcommittee resumed discussions on a new contract.

Lewis made no comment on his presence or on the possible appearance later of Dr. John R. Steelman, head of the United States conciliation service. Steelman was not present when the sub-committee began its deliberations today after a week-end of studying living costs statistics in relation to the UWM demand for a $2-a-day wage increase.

Lewis said he would attend a meeting this afternoon of the tri-district scale committee of the anthracite region from northeastern Pennsylvania, preparatory to the start of anthracite wage negotiations here tomorrow.

Temporary agreements assured continued operations of the soft coal mines for the next 30 days as miners and operators settled down to detailed discussions of the union demands.

Steelman was expected to be present at the northern meeting. The southern group will not begin its session until 2 p. m. EWT.

Dr. Steelman's appearance at the southern conference yesterday was the first direct intervention by the government in the negotiations.

A few hours after he sat down with the two groups behind closed doors, Dr. Steelman called in reporters and announced a temporary agreement had been reached, extending the present contract for 30 days, while the committee continues its negotiations.

Amazing way to be Mentally ALERT ...Physically FIT!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

THESE two important steps may help you overcome the discomforts or embarrassment of sour stomach, jerky nerves, loss of appetite, underweight, disgestive complaints, weakness!

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

So with ample stomach digestive juices PLUS rich, red-blood you should enjoy that sense of well being which denotes physical fitness . . . mental alertness!

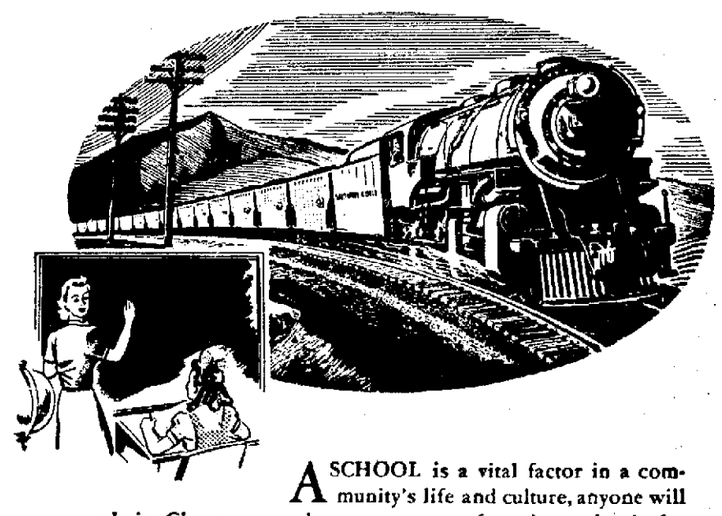

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need as it is especially designed to promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach and to build-up blood strength when deficient.

Build Sturdy Health so that the Doctors may better serve our Fighting Forces

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes. ©S.S.S. Co.

IMAGINE YOUR TOWN WITHOUT IT!

A SCHOOL is a vital factor in a community's life and culture, anyone will admit. Chances are, however, most of us just take it for granted, forgetting the vast educational organization that must back it up.

A railroad, too, is often just taken for granted. Folks are likely to forget the thousands of workers and wealth of equipment required to keep the trains running through a town, whether anyone "takes the train" or not. Yet, it needs but a moment's thought to realize that, without the railroad, the business and cultural life of your community would be mighty different!

The sixty thousand B & O workers today are "all out" for Victory. When that Victory is won, the civilian needs of your town again will be the top job on our list. In the meantime, we're sure you'll agree that civilian requirements are being met quite adequately.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, MARCH 30, 1943.

We cannot evade the hard and grim realities of the war. We can take pride and even pleasure in simple living, or we can grumble about our deprivations. Let us show that we have what it takes to win a total war for freedom.—James F. Byrnes.

Red Cross Goal Passed In County

MANSFIELD and Richland county people have "come across," as usual, in their support of the Red Cross and the $59,000 county quota has been passed—with additional contributions still to be received.

Workers in Mansfield, Shelby, and in all of the county's villages and townships, are entitled to an expression of appreciation of their active participation in this month-long campaign, as any effort of this kind requires preliminary organization and leadership, in addition to thousands of willing contributors, in order to make it a success.

Richland county residents have heretofore established an enviable record as supporters of the regular peace-time activities of the Red Cross and it is gratifying to note that interest was sustained to the point of meeting this year's unusual call for funds sufficient to carry on the heavily increased demands of war upon this great humanitarian agency.

Those Who Forget About the War

THE GOLDEN RULE took a severe walloping over the week-end as the motto, "Every man for himself, and the devil take the hindmost," took precedence over, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Nor did the biblical injunction, "Take no thought for the morrow . . . what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink . . ." seem to have the influence that its centuries of promulgation might be expected to exert.

Considered in association with United States leadership in formulating a program for a more nearly perfect world, the absurdity of last week's panic-buying of meat was only surpassed by the governmental folly of announcing meat rationing a week in advance of effective date.

If any good purpose is to be accomplished by rationing it will be in fair distribution of limited supplies of various essential commodities—with everybody assumed to be willing to bear a fair share of necessary sacrifices and deprivations.

THAT was not the attitude of those people who jammed meat markets last week-end, here and in all American cities, unwilling to await their turn and almost hysterically demanding quantities of meat far in excess of their normal purchases or reasonable requirements.

Insofar as these meat-stock raiders were concerned, others could go hungry—their interest extended only to themselves and their immediate families and if there wasn't enough meat to go around, "that was the other fellow's hard luck."

The fact that there's a war being fought, and that this nation is struggling desperately for survival of the freedom of its people, seems to have escaped notice by those who, by overbuying of scarce commodities, seek to lighten the burden upon themselves and make it heavier for others.

They appear to be unimpressed by the fact that many American young men are undergoing the hardships of war—with mounting costs in lives—in the hope of saving the people of this country from such horrors of warfare as are now being enacted in North Africa and other parts of the world.

It is such self-centered conduct as has been indulged in by those who have refused to voluntarily abide by the intent of rationing restrictions that constitutes a more serious threat to democracy, and to individual freedom, than all the alien propaganda that has ever been unloaded on this country.

Read again what Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, said on this subject: "Everything you do either helps or hurts the enemy. When you buy more than you need now, you help Hitler."

Miners Concede 30-Day Respite

EXCEPT that a 30-day stay of execution has been gained in the threatened mine strike, not much seems to have yet been accomplished looking toward settlement of the main issue involved—whether wages and prices shall be permitted to continue to mount to the extent of bringing disastrous inflation to the country.

Demand of miners for $2 a day wage increase, which would riddle the Little Steel formula set up by the War Labor Board, follows a line of reasoning that advancing living costs, higher taxes and other required expenditures, should be covered by larger earnings.

Argument for higher prices for farm products hinges on increased costs due to high wages—so the whole thing goes round and round until wages and prices get entirely out of hand and purchasing power of the dollar steadily shrinks—to the detriment of everybody, but more particularly to the unfortunate majority caught between the high-wage and the high-price groups.

The position of both the high-wage and the high-price adherents—as viewed by each—is understandable, but unless some solution is found which will work to the advantage of all, rather than cater to special groups, the outlook is not bright.

Stimulus To Kite-Flying

AMERICAN air men in China are not only doing a good job of hunting the oriental Huns, but incidentally are having some fun. They "keep 'em flying" in more ways than one. They have taken up kites for recreation. Even the sedate officers fly them, along with the enlisted men, and there is keen competition.

There's practical value in it, too, for gunners find the high-flying kites very good for practice targets. Probably the mere mention of this development is enough to start a corresponding wave of kite-flying at home.

Kiting, like many other things, seems to have originated in China. It has been a favorite sport not only of boys but also of old or idle men, possibly for thousands of years.

There was a moment of surprise when the cub reporter dashed in to announce, "Ice cream is frozen"—until someone remembered that it's always that way.

The idea of some of those postwar planners seems to center on shortening the trip from the cradle to the gravy.

DELAYING THE OFFENSIVE ON THE HOME FRONT

Attempt to Repeal Auto Use Tax

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — If congress ever repeals a tax law, that's news. As far as I'm concerned, it's news enough that a group of congressmen are trying to.

The tax law they are trying to repeal is the "automobile use tax"—that little $5 a year business levied on more than 30,000,000 persons in the United States.

Spearhead of the repeal movement is Rep. James E. Van Zandt, one-time Pennsylvania railroader from Altoona. Since Mr. Van Zandt is a Republican and hence on the slight minority side of the house, it is doubtful if his repeal move will get anywhere, but it might. There's a good deal more involved than partisan politics.

* * *

NO MORE unpopular tax ever skidded through congress than the auto use tax. Most of the battle was waged by the opposition. Even the treasury department wasn't enthusiastic for this source of revenue. Off the record, some treasury officials called it an A-1 headache. They were sure that they couldn't collect it; that it would cost more money to collect it than it would be worth; that the motorists of the country would never go in for "windshield sticker" taxation; and that making the postoffice department a tax collection agency (the stickers were to be bought at postoffice windows) would be a war-time step in the wrong direction.

* * *

MUCH to the amazement of the treasury, 29,500,000 car owners paid their tax in the first year and a half. In other words, this more or less voluntary tax uncovered less than 3,000,000 tax dodgers and it was safe reasoning that a goodly portion of these weren't using their cars.

But the argument now is that times have changed. More than 41 per cent of the motor vehicles registered in the United States, Mr. Van Zandt says, are on farms and in villages under 2,500 in population. In addition, 55 per cent of the nation cars are owned by persons making less than $30 a week. Surveys now indicate that more than 65 per cent of the mileage on those cars is solely for business purposes.

Mr. Van Zandt and his colleagues argue that this is a burden on necessary (and in most farm cases, indispensable) transportation, at a time when ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman is arguing that unless our transportation system is maintained, the war effort will be seriously handicapped.

Nothing may happen to the "use tax" repeal movement. If it doesn't, it will be unique as an originally unpopular tax that has stayed with us. If the repealers should get in the saddle, the tax will be one of the few that ever was lifted—probably, the only one ever lifted in wartime.

Quarantine Fails

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THIS column has been deeply shocked at the newspaper news which refers to the epidemic of smallpox at Lewiston, Pennsylvania. In particular we are shocked at the reports, whether true or not, that the authorities were trying to control it by quarantine.

Long, long ago, Dr. George Dock, then Professor of Medicine at the University of Michigan, published an article which was called "Smallpox Quarantine in Practice and Its Failure." His whole thesis was that it is impossible to control a smallpox epidemic by quarantine alone.

His experience was obtained especially in an epidemic of smallpox which broke out in an institution for the feeble-minded at Lapeer, Michigan, in 1910. Although the institution was quarantined, "attendants and workmen from the institution appeared on the streets of the adjacent city. State troops, a company of infantry (three officers and 40 men) appeared. They threw out a line of sentries a mile and a quarter in length around the house.

"These troops stood guard for seven nights and seven days. None of them had more than four hours sleep at any one time. Range lights were placed around the patrol line so that no refugee could get out of the grounds without exposing himself." In spite of these precautions a great many stragglers did get out and smallpox spread in the city and neighboring communities.

Quarantine Ineffectual.

It is impossible to institute quarantine under modern conditions. In the first place, nurses and doctors go into the ward and when they come out they are carriers. The milk man arrives, the ice man arrives, the grocer arrives and then they all depart. Smallpox is notably ja disease that is carried by fomites: in other words, it attaches itself to an inanimate object such as a glass, a book or cloth and is spread in this way.

There is a perfectly definite way to prevent the spread of smallpox, which is universal vaccination. In any community where there is universal vaccination there is absolutely no danger of the spread of smallpox.

During my army experience in 1917 we had a number of draftees brought into the camp who had a fever. They were put to bed in a general ward. In the course of a few hours or days the skin eruptions appeared so that there was no doubt in anybody's mind that they were ailing with smallpox. (In the prodromal period there a fever and no eruption so that mistakes are likely to happen, but this is the most contagious period of the disease.) Bu there was never the slightest worry about these episodes because everybody in the army was vaccinated. We did not have even the vestige of an epidemic from any one of them.

Many Unvaccinated.

In spite of all the warnings and admonitions from public health authorities to have children vaccinated, in spite of the fact that vaccination is supposed to be compulsory in public school, we find every once in a while that we have in the United States a very large unvaccinated population.

Dave Boone Says:

POINT RATIONING of meats started yesterday but the whole system is wrong. There is no sense in a customer presenting coupons to a butcher and trying to get meat. The butcher should be trying to get meat from the customers.

Wholesalers at one big meeting charged that housewives are being made "unfortunate suckers for impracticable OPA regulations seemingly drawn by schoolboys," and that schoolboy part ain't far-fetched. A lot of experts batting out rules and regulations these days are not long out of the peramibulator. But it's a great era for juveniles in government.

* * *

I predict a reaction of such proportions that after this war there won't be any confidence in any government official unless he has a white beard, false teeth and hasn't confused the rumba with statesmanship in at least thirty years.

Mayor La Guardia of New York is going to be made a brigadier general and sent abroad, according to reports. I can't understand why Fiorello won't admit it. Unless maybe he ain't sure whether it's a promotion or a Tammany plot.

It's going to make the rest of the country pretty sore if he really goes to Africa. A lot of cities can't see why New York should get peace ahead of them.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Navy's Error Led to $1,400,000 Expenditure for Ship-Conversion

WASHINGTON—A lot of waste is unavoidable in the haste of war time. However, better headwork and planning certainly should be able to eliminate some or the navy's ship-conversion errors which are costing the tax-payer a mint of money.

Take, for instance, the case of a twin-screw passenger ship built in Newport News in 1932.

Last August when plans were being completed for the North African landing, the navy asked the War Shipping Administration for this ship, together with five others, to be converted for combat purposes. This one was to be made a "combat loader," which required the installation of heavy hoisting equipment on the deck to hoist landing barges; also the construction of steel deck houses.

The ship was put into the Brooklyn navy yard, and a crew of men immediately went to work with blow tourches, dismanteling the superstructure.

After only a few days, however, the navy decided they did not want the ship, that her stability was inadequate for the installation of such heavy stuff on top. Accordingly, they asked the War Shipping Administration to take the redelivery of the ship, retroactively, meaning that the navy wanted to cancel out their error and let the WSA take over.

But $450,000 had already been spent by the navy in their abortive conversion operations. War Shipping accordingly suggested that the navy might find some other use for the vessel in the form to which it had been reduced. But the navy, after studying this for a week or two, said they had no use for the ship.

* * *

Becomes Troop-ship.

NEGOTIATIONS between WSA and war department thereupon brought forth an agreement to convert the ship still further and make her a troop ship.

Believe it or not, it required $550,000 to restore the ship to a condition suitable for the beginning of the army's conversion operations. On top of this came the cost of converting her to a troop ship, namely $400,000. These two figures, plus the navy's conversion figure of $450,000, made a grand total of $1,400,000, which approximates what the ship was worth when built ten years ago.

Principal fault seems to lie with the navy, which could have calculated the stability of the vessel before spending any money on conversion. But after the blow torches had started their deadly work, it was frightfully expensive business to get her into shape for anybody else's use. One observer who saw the ship said:

"She could not have been wrecked more if she had been hit by a German torpedo."

WSA officials came to the defense of the navy, however, saying: "This is part of the waste of war."

* * *

Gave Blood Twice.

SEVERAL weeks ago Mrs. Roosevelt phoned the Red Cross to say that she wanted to donate blood to the Washington blood bank, but wanted no publicity.

Red Cross officials agreed and the visit went off without any fanfare. Mrs. Roosevelt merely took her place in line with other blood donors, rolled up her sleeve, had a pint drawn from her arm, and went on about her business.

Some weeks later, Red Cross officials were astounded to have Mrs. Roosevelt appear at the blood bank again. This time she had not telephoned, but they felt their pledge of no publicity still held good. Once again, the First Lady took her place with other blood donors, and scarcely anyone knew she had been there.

Red Cross officials wished they could have publicized the incident, because they were in the middle of their drive for funds. However, they did not do so, and this column learned of the facts quite by accident.

* * *

Pay Before Patriotism.

WAR PRODUCTION BOARD officials tell of a heavy snow-and-sleet storm that blanketed Seattle and left the Boeing Aircraft plant snow-bound, unable to operate for two days. By the end of the week roads had been opened, and Boeing broadcast a back-to-work call.

Men came to the gates of the plant, but stopped there. And they declined to go further until they could be assured of receiving time-and-a-half pay for week-end work.

"But you haven't put in forty hours this week," officials retorted.

The men stood their ground, however, and Boeing officials telephoned Washington for advice. They talked with Madame Perkins, who ruled that nothing should be allowed to interfere with production and that the men should be paid.

Merry-Go-Round.

BRITISH soldiers are now careful how they pick up binoculars, clothing or personal property left behind by the Nazis in North Africa. They have learned that secret mines—"booby traps"—are concealed in them . . . Most despicable Nazi trick has been to hide booby traps on the bodies of dead British soldiers so that burial squads may be blown to bits . . . U. S. department chiefs have asked for the deferment of very few government workers, but local draft boards, acting on their own, have deferred a tremendous number simply because they worked for the government . . . John Steinbeck, author of "Grapes of Wrath" and "Tortilla Flat" is looking for a war front assignment . . . Figures for accidents on the home front continue to be almost as tragic as war casualties. Ned Dearborn of the National Safety Council says that 93,000 Americans were killed and 9,300,000 injured las' year . . . Of the 26 British cameramen who filmed General Montgomery's "Desert Victory," four were killed, seven wounded and six taken prisoner . . . The film is imperfect and hard on the eyes because it was taken under battle conditions. But it is a great story of British heroism . . . Only American journalist to visit the Japs' secret naval base, Truk, is Willard Price. In his book, "Pacific Adventure," he scooped the world on Japan's surreptitious plans to dominate the Pacific from Truk. Recommended as required reading for the state department.

ERNIE PYLE — Roving Reporter

Ernie Explains Purposes of "Desert Kit"; Also Tells About Various African Ailments.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN ALGERIA—Everybody who comes to North Africa with the army is issued a special desert-kit.

The main item in our kit is a dust mask. It is a frightful-looking contraption. It consists of a big black rubber schnozzle that covers your nose and half your face. To this are attached two circular devices, about saucer size, which look like wheels and which hang over each jaw. Apparently the theory is to scare the dust away. We also are given a pair of old-fashioned racetrack goggles, the kind that strap around your head and have fuzz around the edges of the eyepieces. They're tinted lightly brown to act also as sunglasses.

Further than that, each of us is given a dozen isinglass eyeshields, to be used largely for gas attack, but which also can be used for dust.

On the day when we have to put on our gas masks, dust mask, gas eyeshields, dust goggles and steel helmet all at once, they've promised to give a medal to the last man to choke to death.

* * *

ACTUALLY, nobody uses or needs his dust equipment at this season. It is raining now a good part of the time, and some kind of duckfoot attachment for your shoes would be much more appropriate than a dust mask.

This country along the coast is not truly desert. It is without trees or much natural vegetation, but it is all farming country, covered with vineyards and olive groves and grain fields. The soil is a sort of red clay.

But soon it will blow, and from what the people say, it will blow until we almost go insane. Even now, after a few rainless days, you can notice a thin film of dust on your table. You really can't sense dust in the air, but some is there.

The doctors say this invisible dust, plus the rapid drop in temperature at sundown, is responsible for what we call, or at least I call, "sundown throat."

Almost everybody I know gets a sore throat just about sundown. It's a strange, seemingly unaccountable thing. It comes on just after the sun gets behind the hills, and the evening chill starts coming down. Your throat gets so sore you can hardly swallow. It is gone next morning. If your general health is good, nothing comes of this "sundown throat." But if you are run down, one of those African flu bugs may come along, and then your sore throat turns into the African flu, as happened to me.

* * *

IN THE desert-kit are also other things. There are two little bottles of pills for purifying drinking water when you're in the country.

You can put one pill in your canteen, let it sit half an hour put in the other pill and wait a few minutes, then drink the water. Pill No. 1 kills all the germs in the water, and Pill No. 2 kills the nasty taste left by Pill No. 1.

In addition we have a can of mosquito paste, and pills to take for malaria. In this area and at this season, there isn't must need for these. I've yet to see a mosquito, although once in a while a malaria case turns up at one of the army hospitals.

The local people consider December, January and February their winter. They say they stop taking quinine on the first of December, and start again in March.

Right now, this seems the last place on earth where you'd get malaria—it simply doesn't look like malaria country. For although this is Africa, it's still as far north as Norfolk, and it's not the steaming jungle you're thinking of, a thousand miles south.

Our malaria pills are not quinine, but a substitute known as atabrin. We are warned not to take them without doctor's instructions. Personally I'm never going to take mine. I talked to one doctor from the South, a malaria specialist, who took his and thought he was going to die. He says he'd rather have malaria and get it over with.

Africa is not clean, and we can expect a good bit of disease before we finally get out of here. Our sore throats and flu are known to the doctors as "winter respiratory diseases." The malaria, dysentery and stuff that we'll have this spring will be known as "summer intestinal disturbances."

The large and small diseases that infect the ragged carcass of this sad correspondent at all seasons and in all climes are known medically as "Puny Pyle's Perpetual Pains."

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AFTER A BIG RAIN

DURING the night, the thunder boomed; then sudden hasty drops beat like pellets upon the metal roof. This was the vanguard of a rain that began steadily at dawn and continued the whole day.

By evening the Clearfork was quite a sight. It rushed eastward down the valley, foaming and threatening as it tore along—then in a single hour changed from a brimming river to a broad lake of muddy water that inundated half the lowlands of the fertile bottoms. Parts of broken trees moved rapidly on the crest, sawed timbers, fodder shocks, even a small hog house bobbed up and down with the swift currents. In sheltered nooks, patches of dull gray foam held twigs and leaves.

Our little brook that was frozen solid ten days ago was now a roaring torrent, reaching beyond its low green banks into the pasture. More yellow than the Clearfork, it seemed. I reached down from the bridge and swept my hand into the tossing current. When I pulled it out, my palm and fingers were smeared with sticky clay. I looked up toward the higher slopes and saw rivulets etching themselves deeply into every cultivated field.

Down the roadside banks came dashing cascades of thick muddy water from open fields. Great fans of silt and clay lay like grease upon the concrete highway. Wheat fields were marked like maps, corn fields without a covering lost their richest inch of soil, pastures cropped too close were gullied.

I stood upon a knoll at the center of a 20-acre field, where the farmer had finished plowing and thrown the dirt down hill. Four gullies five feet deep marked the four corners where he turned, and these reached to each corner of the field.

When a convoy of laden ships is lost at sea, that is a catastrophe. But if the country loses a billion dollars worth of topsoil in a single day and night of storm, it goes so gradually and so naturally that we do not estimate our loss . . . which may be greater than a war tax. Rains at this season work more havoc than at any other, for now the long ice needles have disappeared and left the earth loose, mellow, creasy and soft with the odors of new life.

Ignorance and greed are still the farmer's greatest enemies—ignorance of how to prevent the waste of our greatest national asset, the top soil, and greed that does not consider future generations, because the present dollar is too big.
